Mining reform coalition holds open meeting

By Nina Crowder
Copper Area News

Billed as a forum to present the "other side" of the Resolution Copper Mine issue, last week's open meeting was well attended by both opponents and proponents of the mine and proposed land exchange. The public informational meeting was sponsored by the Concerned Citizens and Retired Miners Coalition. Roger Featherstone with the Arizona Mining Reform Coalition led the discussion of the Gosar Oak Flat Land Exchange Bill, which he said is a big loss for the public and a big win for foreign mining giants. Congressman Gosar is leading the charge for the newest version of the Oak Flat Land Exchange, HR 687. This is the 12th version of the land exchange since it was first introduced in 2005.

Featherstone asked, is this bill in the interest of the citizens of the United States?

It serves the purpose to make it easier for two foreign mining companies Rio Tinto and BHP Billiton to export valuable American natural resources overseas and allow profits at the taxpayer's expense, he said. Featherstone further discussed why this is a bad idea: the revenue would not go to taxpayers, this would devastate the region's water supply, destroy habitat, endangerment of plants and recreational effects.

"The new copper mine is not needed in Arizona at this time," Featherstone said. "There are other mines in the area that aren't running at full capacity and it makes a lot more sense to fully utilize the existing mines."

Rio Tinto, he continued, seeks to justify the destruction of Oak Flat in the name of jobs and economic benefits that it says will flow to the State of Arizona and the local economy as a result of their mine. Rio Tinto, Featherstone further said, has based most of their glowing job and economic impacts figures on a report they hired Elliot D. Pollack & Company to prepare titled "Resolution Copper Company Economic and Fiscal Impact Report, Superior, Arizona."

Among some of the flaws, Featherstone said, the report assumes that there will be no environmental costs associated with the proposed mine and that the construction and operation of the proposed mine would not conflict with any other economic activities or values.

Rio Tinto's report, Featherstone said, was recently exposed in a report examining the Pollack study prepared in September of 2013, by the independent consulting firm of Power Consulting, Inc. titled "Exaggerating the Net Economic Benefits of the Proposed Resolution Copper Mine, Superior, Arizona: A Critical Review of Resolution's Economic

Pinal County Attorney compiles 'Brady List'

By John Hernandez
Copper Area News

Pinal County Attorney Lando Voyles is working to create a list of police officers with questionable integrity issues. It is being designed to make it more efficient in complying with the 1963 Supreme Court ruling requiring prosecutors to disclose evidence to defense attorneys including evidence that calls into question the integrity of the witness even law enforcement personnel.

This list is commonly referred to as the Brady List by government agencies that maintain this data base. The name is derived from the Supreme Court case Brady v. Maryland.

Letters have been sent by the County Attorney's Office to heads of police agencies around Pinal County. The letters requested condensed reports of all internal and criminal investigations involving police officers and civilian personnel. These investigations include incidents of prejudice towards a particular group or class of people, misconduct involving being untruthful, improper use of force or an allegation of misconduct. The law enforcement agencies are being asked to send the cases to the County Attorney's Office as they happen.

The Pinal County Attorney's Office has set up a panel of nine senior prosecutors and a law enforcement liaison that will make the decision of whether or not to place the law enforcement officer or civilian employee on the list. The officer or civilian will receive a letter notifying them that they are under review and they will be allowed to submit in writing any information they would like the panel to consider. If they are placed on the list, they will receive another letter explaining why they have been put on the list. They will be given the opportunity to appeal in writing the decision of the panel.

The list is being maintained by the Maricopa County Attorney's Office and includes the officer's name, agency and date of the offense. It can be accessed through a public records request.

Superior Council invites public to help clean up

By Nina Crowder
Superior Sun

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month and the Superior Town Council has officially recognized the designation. The council last week signed a proclamation.

Carolyn Gillis from the Domestic Violence

Safe Home in Globe was introduced to the council and spoke to them about their services.

"The purpose of the safe home is to provide women and children that are in domestic violence situations a safe place," Gillis said. "Our home is a four bedroom with 11 beds."

Last year, 104 women and children stayed throughout the year.

A question was asked about men in domestic violence situations. Carolyn explained that they are not able to take men, but there is a home in Safford that does.

The council also proclaimed October as National Head Start Awareness Month. Hilda Cardenas from the Superior Head Start invited the public and town council to the Head Start open house set for Oct. 24 from 8 a.m. to noon. Head Start is located on Lobb just north of Main Street.

Margaret Gaston, Town Manager, introduced two new employees for the Town of Superior. Joe Eddie Moreiga will be in Public Works. He has 27 years of experience working in City of Mesa. David Romero, who grew up in Superior and has experience in payroll and accounting, will be the Administrative Aid for Town Hall.

The Superior Student Council President and members of student council addressed the council regarding permission to hold a Homecoming Parade for Superior High School on October 18, 2013 at 4 p.m. on Main Street. The line-up will be near the Presbyterian Church. They invited the whole community to take part in this year's homecoming events.

The council granted permission for the annual homecoming parade. The council also approved an alcohol beverage permit for the Magma Club for a graduation party.

The council addressed concerns from the Senior Center regarding the quality of food that is being served at the center and delivered to homebound seniors. The Hayden Senior Center has the contract.

Annie Hinojos, Director of the Hayden Senior Center, and Hayden Mayor Charles 'Chale' Vega were on hand at last week's meeting to help address the concerns. They brought samples of the food that is served.

"Any food establishment will get some complaints and most of these can be taken care of through the directors," Hinojos said. She met with Councilwoman Mila Besich Lira, Gaston and a representative of the Superior Senior Center and assured them that they will be working through the issues. "Communication to the clients and each other is a key," Hinojos said.

She explained that the food is weighed and portioned according to federal guidelines. "Sometimes the clients actually (microwave) the food for ten minutes, when all is needed is three minutes," Hinojos said. The directors, she explained, try to educate the clients of the cooking times and help them through this process.

Call to the Public

Several residents and business owners spoke to the Superior Town Council during call to the public and addressed a number of concerns.

Sandra Doyle told the council about issues she has at the Caboose Visitors Center. "The bathrooms need to be cleaned up we want to make a good impression on the winter visitors," she told Mayor Jayme Valenzuela.

Businessman Sonnie Sansom acknowledged that there is a problem with weeds throughout town. In some areas, he said, the weeds are knee high especially some streets coming into Main Street and at the cemetery. Additionally, Sansom also invited the council and members of the public to visit the new laundry mat located at 85 High School Ave.

Andrew Taplin, Resolution Copper Mining Project Director, spoke to the council. "We would like to move forward our relationship with the Town of Superior and would like the town to engage with Resolution Copper and make Superior prosperous," Taplin said. "We have gathered documents you were missing from your file and provided these to your Town Attorney. If I can provide any encouragement to the Town of Superior, Elected Officials without conflicts to move forward on the Resolution Copper project, thank you!"

Joy Evelyn spoke about the two empty houses at Wyatt and Long. "There is water standing, weeds, urine smell, mosquitoes, tweakers," she said. "This has turned into a health hazard."

Fred Miramon spoke about his support for the town. "I support our town government and Resolution Copper," he said. "As an outdoorsmen I wanted to bring up some information about mining. Water being valued higher than gold, how the mine will affect the water pollution?" he said. "Through the tailings, seepage, the use of water will change and the government needs to safe guard our wild life and Forest Service areas, if there is any updated information could it please be made public. Follow the principals to safe guard wild life and human life."

Future Events and Meeting

There will be a clean up at the Fairview Cemetery at 7 a.m. on Oct. 12. Any and all volunteers are welcome and appreciated.

Mayor Valenzuela and the council members would like to encourage all members of the community in Superior to attend the Town Council Meetings. The next Town Council meeting is scheduled for Oct. 17, 2013 at 7 p.m. For additional information please feel free to visit the Superior Town's Website at www.superior-arizona.com.

Panthers suffer overtime loss to Duncan Wildkats

By Andrew Luberda
Superior Sun

Looking to build on the momentum of last week's first victory, the Panthers' football team was unable to do so and lost in overtime to Duncan last Friday night, 28 – 22.

After a scoreless first quarter, freshman quarterback Nicolaus Cruz put the Panthers ahead on a 30-yard touchdown run with about four minutes left in the half. Cruz completed the 2-point conversion for an 8 – 0 lead.

Duncan answered with less than minute left in the half on an 18-yard touchdown pass. The 2-point conversion was successful to tie the game at the half, 8 – 8.

Cruz put the Panthers ahead in the third quarter on a 3-yard run. After a successful 2-point conversion, the Panthers led 14 -8 heading into the fourth quarter.

Duncan scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter and held a 22 – 16 lead with under a minute to play in the game. Superior's Eric Oatis scored on a 3-yard touchdown run to tie the game at 22 – 22. Unfortunately the 2-point conversion attempt failed and the game headed to overtime.

After Superior failed to score on their opening possession of overtime, Duncan capitalized and scored on a 1-yard touchdown run to earn the victory.

Next up for the Panthers is a trip to Ray to battle the sixth-ranked Bearcats who are coming off their first loss of the season. The annual Copper Helmet game is Friday, October 11, 2013. Game time is 7:00 p.m.

Panthers' volleyball team is runner-up at tournament

By Andrew Luberda
Superior Sun

The Superior Panthers girls' volleyball team played for the tournament championship at Salt River High School last weekend versus the Ray Bearcats. After defeating Ray in pool play, the Panthers were unable to duplicate the feat in the championship match.

Head Cheryl Lopez was anxious for her team to get some tournament experience and was proud of her team's performance. "The girls gave an excellent effort," Lopez said after the match.

Lopez added that her team was given a standing ovation from the Panthers' fans who made the trip to cheer the team on.

The Panthers defeated Cibecue and San Tan Foothills in the first two rounds of the tournament to setup the rematch in the championship round.

The Panthers players were pleased with their showing at the tournament and were rewarded with a new trophy to add to the Superior trophy collection at the school.

The Panthers play at Mogollon on October 10, 2013.

Impact Analysis.” Rio Tinto’s study, Featherstone said, assumes that a mine would only produce benefits with no costs. The Pollack study assumes that a proposed mine would operate continuously at full production and ignores the historic bust and boom cycle of mines in Arizona.

“Rio Tinto assumes that a proposed mine would operate 24/7 for 50 years at 100% capacity, despite a century and a half of evidence to the contrary,” Featherstone said. “The history of Arizona mines shows clearly that copper production, employment, payroll, and tax payments fluctuate widely due to changing international copper prices and other factors.”

The Pollack report, Featherstone said, added the annual impacts over a 64 year period and reported that cumulative number as the impact rather than reporting the annual level of projected impacts. “This is like saying that a projected mining job would pay $3.8 million rather than saying a job would pay $75,000 annually and last 50 years,” Featherstone explained. “Therefore, many of Rio Tinto’s economic impacts are 64 times to large. The report assumes there would be no requirements for public services such as road repair, police and fire protections, education, or social services as a result of the mine project. Rio Tinto’s report claims a large generation of taxes, but fails to consider or calculate for any of the demands for services that taxes would pay for. Metal mining jobs have not reduced unemployment or assisted local economic stability. For over 100 years, copper mining has taken place in Superior and surrounding towns. There has not been a history of sustained prosperity in mining.”

Orlando Perea has 41 years of mining experience in San Manuel and Superior as a supervisor.

“In San Manuel the block cave mining was used and very different,” Perea said. “If you haven’t worked a block cave mine you just don’t realize the destruction that is taking place.” There is a lot of water used for the block cave mining. In San Manuel, Perea explained, there was approximately 55,000 tons a day and there is a lot of water used. It is similar to a manmade earthquake underground, he said.

“Do we want the tailing here in Superior? What are we going to leave for our grandkids, what legacy?” Perea asked.

Curt Shannon with Access Fund Climbing out of Boulder, Colorado was in attendance. His group represents rock climbers and heavy recreational areas. They are advocates for climbers, camping and recreation. The Access Fund, he explained, is the national advocacy organization that keeps U.S. climbing areas open and conserves the climbing environment. Founded in 1991, the Access Fund supports and represents over 2.3 million climbers nationwide in all forms of climbing: rock, ice, and mountaineering.

“Approximately $10.6 billion is spent in Arizona for all of recreation. There are approximately 103,700 jobs in outdoor recreation in Arizona,” Shannon said. “It is important for us to save our recreational areas.”

Roy Chavez, a member of the Concerned Citizens and Retired Miners Coalition, spoke out against the mining project.

“It is important for a town like Superior to be diversified,” Chavez said. “In mining when the jobs are here they are good, but when they are gone, they are gone. When you have a massive project like this at your door step it sounds like it is the best thing since sliced bread, but realistically this has been moving for eight years now in legislation. We want facts both pro and con. A pre-NEPA would be idealistic, a look before you leap.”

If you would like to read the full Pollack report, it can be found at: <http://bit.ly/1fWK385>. If you would like to sign the Oak Flat Petition it is available at www.oakflat.org or if you have specific questions for the Arizona Mine Reform they can be reached at 520-777-9500.

Pastor's Corner

By Rev. Dennis Van Gorp
Family Life Christian Center

Many people have the idea that when they die, they will automatically go to heaven. In John 3:5-8, Jesus explains that only those who are ‘born again’ will be allowed to enter heaven.

Just what does the term, born again, really mean? First of all, it only matters what God thinks, not what I want, wish or desire. Whatever God calls wrong, will always be wrong. When we do, say or think things that God has declared to be wrong, it is called sin.

Since God is ‘holy,’ or without any sin, He does not allow anyone involved in a sinful lifestyle to enter into heaven. We must recognize the harmful ways in our life and tell God that we are sorry for living that way. Then, we promise to follow God’s directions on how to live a holy life. To make it easy, He wrote it all down in a book we call the ‘Holy Bible.’

When we ask Him to take sin out of our life, we become saved or ‘born again.’ Next, we promise Him that we will live by and obey all of His rules. By doing so, we have received permission to enter heaven.

It is not by what we do, but because of what He did 2,000 years ago. By innocently dying on the cross, He took responsibility for our sins; clearing the way for us to be born again – set free from our sins.

Heaven is a wonderful place, filled with God’s love, glory and grace! Believe in Jesus and ask Him to guide and direct your life. Read your Bible and do what it says. Then, we will see each other in heaven! May the Lord richly bless your life.

Resolution Copper appoints new hire for community outreach

Resolution Copper Mining has appointed Dave Richins as Principle Advisor, Government Affairs. In this role, Richins will guide Resolution Copper's relationships with federal, state and local government leaders, support efforts to move the land exchange legislation forward, and develop and lead the project's public and community outreach and communications programs.

"Dave brings to Resolution a perfect blend of public and private sector experience, along with a vast and deep understanding of how sustainable economic development and environmental protection can be achieved," said Resolution Copper Project Director Andrew Taplin. "He will be invaluable in moving the project forward and is the right person to help us reach out to and partner with the community."

Taplin says Richins will focus on regional and community partnering and will continue the company's dialogue with supporters and opponents. This includes a continued effort to brokering a relationship with Native American tribes, with the goal of identifying issues and finding solutions that create a win-win for all parties. In addition, he will work with neighbors, environmental advocates and government leaders to proactively address issues surrounding development of the mine.

"Resolution presents wonderful opportunities for community development, and is the perfect blend of economic development and diversification, community building, job creation, and environmental stewardship," Richins said. "I am excited to work with the team and with all our stakeholders to help make this a world class project and create lasting benefits for the community where we all live, work and play."

Since 2008, Richins has been Sun Corridor Legacy Program Director with the Sonoran Institute, a non-profit organization that works to conserve and restore natural and cultural assets and to promote better management of growth and change in the Western United States. In that role, he coordinated the Institute's public policy work, and was responsible for developing programs and policies aimed at balancing urban growth and quality of life with protecting the natural surroundings and open space in Arizona. Previously, he was the Executive Director and Founder of the West Mesa Community Development Corporation in Mesa, Arizona where he worked with neighbors, community leaders, business leaders, and other stakeholders to revitalize his neighborhood. Richins serves on a variety of local, state and national committees, including Arizona Municipal Users Association, National League of Cities Community and Economic Development Steering Committee, Smart Growth America Local Leaders Council, Arizona Power Plant and Line Siting Committee and the Local Government Advisory Commission at US Environmental Protection Agency. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in Sustainable Community Development from Prescott College. Richins is also a Mesa City Council member, representing District 1. About Resolution Copper

Resolution

Resolution Copper Mining LLC is a limited liability company whose members are a subsidiary of London-based Rio Tinto plc – the managing member – and a subsidiary of Australia-based BHP Billiton. The company seeks to develop one of the largest undeveloped copper resources in the world near Superior, Ariz.

The project is currently in the pre-feasibility phase and production is anticipated in the early 2020s. The project will mine ore using underground block-caving methods at depths of nearly 7,000 feet below surface. When in full production, the mine will employ 1,400 workers directly and generate an additional 2,300 indirect and induced jobs with an economic impact of more than $64 billion.

Pinal County 4-H growing every day!

Pinal County 4-H clubs have a rich history, dating back to 1914. This year, as Arizona 4-H turns 100 years old and 4-H families across the state are celebrating all year long, Pinal County 4-H clubs are reorganizing. This is a good time for you to join. Pinal County 4-H has 21 community clubs throughout the county.

There are lots of opportunities within 4-H for youth to develop important life skills and learn how to grow into successful adults. Throughout the years, as 4-H expanded, they not only offered plant and animal projects, but, also created projects in science and technology, natural resources, leadership, citizenship, family and consumer sciences, communications and expressive arts.

What makes 4-H special is the focus on basic life skills development. Putting its motto, "To Make the Best Better" into practice in all areas of the program, the 4-H of today offers programming for both rural and urban youth. Traditional program is still offered in the form of 4-H clubs, as well as non-traditional outreach experiences through schools, grant focused programs and other collaborative efforts. Projects are offered for youth to express themselves, discover new things and prepare themselves to become capable and contributing leaders of a global society.

Pinal County 4-H is currently accepting youth enrollments and recruiting new adult volunteer leaders throughout the county for the 2013-14 club year. 4-H clubs generally meet once each month as a whole community club where they include a youth led business meeting, an educational activity and some fun games. Additionally, one or more specific project clubs are usually held for members each month. Clubs are organized for youth, ages 5-19 years of age. If you are interested in joining 4-H, please call the University of Arizona Cooperative Extension 4-H Office at 520-836-5221.
