Superior Town Council to seek more data before taking position on Oak Flat land swap reversal

By James J. Hodl
Superior Sun

Whether the Superior Town Council should take sides in an effort to undo a land swap between Resolution Copper and the San Carlos Apache Tribe approved by Congress last December has been put off until the Council collects more information on the issue.

To gather that data, the Council took up an offer made by Terry Rambler, chairman on the San Carlos Apache Tribe, to have Councilman John Tameron join a tribal delegation visiting Washington on Nov. 2 to promote reversal of the land swap. It was specified that Tameron would only be an observer and would not take part in any discussions between tribal representatives and U.S. government officials or elected representatives.

Tameron made a report on what he learned during the Washington trip at the Nov. 12 Council meeting. Tribal Chairman Rambler also was scheduled to speak on the issue before the Council but was unable to appear due to a scheduling conflict. It is hoped Rambler can reschedule for the next Council meeting on Dec. 9.

Despite the Congressional action last December, the San Carlos Apache Tribe remains opposed to the land swap, under which 2,400 acres of land amid the Tonto National Forest including Oak Flat, which the Tribe holds to be sacred ground, to Resolution Copper. In return, Resolution gives the U.S. Forest Service 5,300 acres of private parcels the company owns in the area.

This action has been controversial as the land swap was slipped into the National Defense Authorization Act of 2014 by Arizona Senators John McCain and Jeff Flake shortly before this must-pass military spending bill came up for a vote before Congressional adjournment for the year. Critics argue that like all last-minute riders, the land swap received little scrutiny by elected representatives eager to go home for the Christmas holidays, so a correction is due.

Sen. McCain backed the land swap, claiming it would create thousands of jobs that would boost the economy around Superior and other area communities.

Legislation (H.R. 2811) to repeal the land swap was introduced last June by Rep. Raul Grijalva (D-AZ). The measure, currently awaiting hearings in the House Natural Resources Committee, has picked up 39 co-sponsors, although Rep. Ruben Gallego is the only additional one from Arizona. Nearly all Arizona representatives voted for the full measure last year.

Councilman Tameron reported on how he spent the day with the Apache delegation visiting assorted government officials and elected representatives. He noted how at each stop the delegation emphasized that the Oak Flat site in the middle of the land swap area was an Apache holy place where ceremonies, including coming-of-age rites, have been performed since before recorded history, and for food and medicinal gathering. Also in the area are Apache burial grounds.

OAK FLAT

Among those visited by the tribal delegation were Sen. Martin Heinrich of New Mexico; Rep. William Lacey Clay from Missouri; Betsy Lin, chief of staff to Sen. Mazie Hirono of Hawaii; and Arthur (Butch) Blazer, undersecretary for National Resources and Environment with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The most productive visit was to the offices of Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-VT), who three days later introduced a Senate version of Rep. Grijalva's bill. That measure (S 2242) was assigned to the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

At the end of the day, Tameron attended a Save Oak Flats forum conducted by representatives of several Native American tribes at which questions were answered and opinions stated. At the end of the 2.5 hour event, the tribes presented a petition with more than 1 million signatures asking that the land exchange be overturned.

Contributing to the debate, Mayor Jayme Valenzuela read an op-ed published in 2008 by the Arizona Republic by Kathy Kitcheyan, former chairwoman of the San Carlos Apache Tribe, arguing against letting Resolution Copper mine on Oak Flats, citing that the land was sacred to the tribe. Her eloquent prose explained what the land meant to the tribe and why it should be preserved.

However, it was noted that since then Kitcheyan has changed her position, recently saying in Facebook posts that Oak Flat meant nothing to the tribe and that no ceremonies were held on the land until 2012 for political purposes.

Mayor Valenzuela suggested that Kitcheyan also be invited to the Dec. 9 Council Meeting to clarify her change of opinion.

Another proposal was made that Resolution Copper be invited to the same meeting to present its side of the land swap repeal legislation.

That the Council was still trying to form an opinion on the land swap did not sit well with all Council members. Councilman Gilbert Aguilar wondered that as it took five years for Resolution Copper to gain permission to mine Oak Flat, would Superior now have to wait another five years for the Oak Flat issue to be settled.

Some citizens during the meeting's public comments section agreed with Aguilar, stating that Superior needs the jobs Resolution Copper will create sooner rather than later. But a few citizens also backed the Apache Tribe, noting that the proposed mining operation would harm the local environment.

In other business at the Council Meeting, Town Manager Margaret Gaston reported that Superior has amassed a $270,000 budget that

Superior Head Start 2015 Happenings

Superior, Arizona - October proved to be quite a busy month of interactive learning for the children of Superior Head Start. The students and staff have now begun a new month of fresh adventure and are looking forward to future months to come.

In October, the students spent time guessing what is in a real, fresh pumpkin, and learning the answer by slimy, messy process during which the children were encouraged to observe and draw conclusions. One child said, "it has bugs in it. Another stated, "You can't eat it, 'cause it will make you sick." Whereas another child said, "I think it has a candle stuck in it."

The children created collages using sand, dirt, leaves, yarn, glue, tissue paper and markers. By doing so, the children's small motor skills continued to be developed with their art projects. An Open House was hosted by students and staff, with their artwork displayed throughout the classrooms, indoors and outdoors.

During Open House, the children were visited by the Superior Police Chief and the Superior Fire Department personnel. The children had such a great time along with their Silly Dress Up Day costume excitement. They learned how to stay safe, and about the "Stop, drop and roll." procedure.

Later that day, they participated in a walking field trip to the Superior Senior Citizens' Center where they sang finger-plays and paraded in their Silly Dress Up Day costumes. They also participated in the Gemini Hospice's Pet Therapy session while at the Senior center. It was a wonderful opportunity for the children to spend time forming friendships and learning to share with one another.

Says a Superior Head Start Staff member,

"The children are encouraged daily to be independent with small tasks as it increases their sense of self esteem when they feel that "they can do things for themselves. From shaving cream to the freeze dance, the children have been busy. This program session includes practicing writing and recognition of their names, letters, shapes and numbers."

The children recently completed their unit on Farm Animals with a visit from Chef Combo. They enjoyed tasting a Purple Cow milkshake, made by using a blender to mix 1% milk, 100% grape juice, low fat vanilla ice cream and banana slices.

On Wednesday, Nov. 25, just prior to Thanksgiving, the children will be visiting the Wild Cow Art Gallery. In December, they will visit the Superior His and Her Hair Company.

Says a Superior Head Start Staff Member, "The children and staff are thankful for the support of the parents, grandparents and volunteers and for the Town of Superior, its community members and local businesses."

This year's Head Start teaching staff members are: Hilda Cardenas, Site Manager/Family Community Advocate, LaToya Coronado Janitor/Kitchen Aide, Irene Navarro Classroom Support Aide, Assistant Teacher Sophia Cortes' and Teresita Martinez Olmos, Teacher-PIC.

OAK FLAT

with enable the replacement of all street signs that will make it easier for motorists to maneuver around town.

Council members voted 6-0 to change the name of Mary Drive and Sunset Drive near offices of the Superior School District to Panther Drive in honor of the local sports team. Resolution 15-557 was passed as an emergency measure so the name change can be made immediately. It was noted that fewer than six residences will be affected by the change.

Several area road projects also were announced by Bill Harmon, district engineer with the Southeast Engineering and Maintenance District of the Arizona Department of Transportation (ADOT).

The biggest project will be to widen to four lanes U.S. Route 60 from Silver King to Superior at a cost of $32.9 million). The project makes accommodation for medium openings for a new Circle K gasoline/retail facility, and Harmon said he'd also consider requests by other local businesses for similar accommodations. This project will be completed by 2017, though Harmon said he is working to get it done sooner.

Harmon also said ADOT will widen and add passing lanes on U.S. 60 from Oak Flat to Miami at a cost of $8.8 million; and a project to mitigate rock falling along U.S. 60.

Future projects ADOT is considering include adding lights to the Queen Creek Tunnel on U.S. 60, rock fall mitigation along State Route 77, and a pavement preservation job along State Route 177, Harmon said.

Superior High School class of 1960 hosts 55th reunion

Reunion attendees

SHS 1960 Graduate Herb Brooks with 1962 Chevrolet Impala, named "Goldie."

By Joyce Hing
SHS Class of 1960

It had been five years since their 50th class reunion yet it felt like it just happened yesterday. The reunion was held in Mesa the weekend of Nov. 7-8, 2015 at the home of Kay (Valdin) and Carter Herrera. In attendance were Herbert Brooks, Frankie Gillette, Kay Valdin Herrera, Joyce Hing, Louie Mannheimer, Barbara Bailey Nancarrow, Richard Padilla, Patty Benson Pesce, Ray Provencio, Carmen Diaz Rios, Marion Cody Saba and Jane Wing Wong. Also celebrating with classmates were spouses, Pat Brooks, Carter Herrera, Dianne Mannheimer, Schella Padilla, Genevieve Provencio and Raymond Rios.

Arriving in style was Herb and Pat Brooks driving their beautifully restored 1962 Impala, named "Goldie." The frame off restoration with everything repaired or replaced took four years to complete. In pristine condition the "jewel" is ready for any antique car show.

During the evening when discussing our ages, one classmate commented, "time has been good to us." Another classmate chimed in, "isn't 70 the new 60?"

Everyone continues to lead very active and productive lives including: Serving on local community boards, participating in civic organizations, doing volunteer work, substitute teaching, fishing including fly fishing, playing tennis, painting, swimming, water aerobics, hiking, golfing, snorkeling, scuba diving, outrigger canoe paddling, restoring cars, traveling throughout the USA, Europe, and Asia, and spending time with children and grandchildren.

The evening was filled with laughter, reminiscing, telling stories, and feasting on a delicious Mexican dinner. All are thankful for good health, lasting friendships, and cherished memories of growing up in small town Superior.
