CASA of Gila County celebrates National Mentoring Month

January is National Mentoring Month, and this year Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Gila County is aiming to recruit quality volunteers to connect more of our community's youth in foster care with caring adults.

National Mentoring Month is the time of year where engagement from community members interested in becoming a mentor is highest. With the support of the mentoring community, we are encouraging the public to go beyond just digital engagement – and become involved in real life.

“Caring, consistent adult mentors can mean the difference between success and struggle for children and young adults,” said Emily

Nader, CASA Coordinator in Gila County. “They need to know there are adults who are going to stay with them throughout their journey in the foster care system and help them cope with what is happening.”

Studies have shown that a child in foster care that is assigned a CASA volunteer is more likely to succeed in school, more likely to find a safe, permanent home, and half as likely to re-enter the foster care system.

Research shows that mentors play a powerful role in providing young people with the tools to strive and thrive, to attend and engage in school, and to reduce or avoid risky behavior like drug use. In turn, these young people are:

- 55% more likely to be enrolled in college
- 81% more likely to report participating regularly in sports or extracurricular activities
- 78% more likely to volunteer regularly in their communities.
- More than twice as likely to say they held a leadership position in a club or sports team.

Yet, only one in six Arizona children in foster care have a CASA volunteer. Today, there are over 14,000 children in Arizona who have been removed from their homes due to abuse and/or neglect.

At the same time, research shows that 44% of adults are not yet mentoring but are willing to consider it.

“We are so grateful for each person who takes on the role of a mentor. It is needed. It is important,” said Nader.

Each year since National Mentoring Month's launch by MENTOR in 2002, it has enjoyed the strong support of the President and the United States Congress. Other prominent individuals who have participated in the campaign include: Maya Angelou, former President Bill Clinton, Clint Eastwood, Quincy Jones, Cal Ripken Jr., Bill Russell, and Usher.

Become a CASA volunteer today. Court Appointed Special Advocates are everyday community members who donate their time to be the voice for a child. CASA volunteers visit with the children regularly, filling that mentor role. They follow the progress of the child's court case, interview important people in the child's life, and report their observations back to the court so the judge can make informed decisions on behalf of the child.

No specific background or training is needed to become a CASA volunteer. Anyone 21 years of age or older, who can pass a thorough background check and complete 30 hours of free training, is encouraged to apply.

A Look Back at Pinal County's 2019

As the 2019 year comes to an end, we want to highlight a few of Pinal County's major projects and accomplishments. Pinal County continues to attract new businesses, therefore creating job opportunities and healthy economic growth. Our Pinal County Board of Supervisors remain focused on implementing policies that will enhance both the quality of life for county employees and all Pinal County residents. This year various county departments led the way in innovative ideas, which generated national recognition for Pinal County.

This year we have welcomed Nikola Motors, which will be bringing the nation's most advanced hydrogen electric semi-trucks to market and more than 2,000 jobs to the area. Similarly, Lucid Motors has already celebrated its commitment to Pinal County during its groundbreaking ceremony in early December. Lucid Motors is a luxury automotive company that will create 4,800 new direct and indirect jobs within a decade and an estimated $32 billion in revenue impact for Casa Grande and Pinal County over the next 20 years. Pinal County remains home to more familiar businesses like the Arizona Zipline Adventures, which continues to bring in tourist and provides the county with an adrenaline pumping destination.

For the third year in a row the Pinal County Board of Supervisors have approved a reduction in property tax rates from $3.86 to $3.79, which will greatly benefit all county residents. In June, the Board unanimously approved an across-the-board salary increase of 2% for employees who met or exceeded performance standards. Sequentially, Pinal County was recognized by Forbes as being one of the top companies to work for in Arizona.

Another acknowledgment that Pinal County received was for our Mobile Voter Outreach Van which is the first-of-its-kind in Arizona and will help reach voters in rural parts of the county. The van will be able to host early voting events, register eligible individuals to vote and be used as an early drop off location.

These highlights merely scratch the surface of what Pinal County has accomplished in 2019. We are excited for the New Year and the new opportunities it will bring.

Public hearings held on Capstone Pinto Valley EIS

The Tonto National Forest held two public hearings last week to allow the public to comment on the expansion of the Pinto Valley Mine operations between Miami and Superior. The proposed expansion will extend the mine life to 2039 and will also consolidate previous and ongoing mining authorizations.

According to the Tonto National Forest website for the Capstone EIS, the proposed project would result in an estimated 1,011 acres of new disturbance (245 acres on Tonto National Forest land and 766 acres on private land owned by Pinto Valley Mining Corp.). The EIS will evaluate and disclose the potential environmental effects from approval of the Mining Plan of Operations for activities on the Tonto National Forest.

The public can comment on this project through Jan. 27, 2020. Comments can be submitted by mail to: Tonto National Forest, Pinto Valley Mine EIS Comments, 2324 E. McDowell Rd., Phoenix, AZ 85006 (must be postmarked by Jan. 27, 2020), or by email to: comment@pintovalleymineeis.us.

Local, county and state leaders discuss impact of strike on communities

Winkelman Mayor Chaco Bracamonte, Hayden Mayor Dean Hetrick, Vice Mayor Bobby Smith, Gila County Supervisor Woody Cline, State Senator Frank Pratt, Gila County Board of Supervisor Administrative Staff, State Representative T.J. Cook and State Representative David Cook meet with a consultant to the Ways and Means Committee at the State Capitol.

Local and state leaders met Monday, Jan. 6, at the State Capitol to discuss the future of the Town of Hayden and Winkelman. The meeting was requested by the Towns of Hayden and Winkelman mayors to address concerns about the future of each town as the ASARCO strike looms into its fourth month.

The closure of the Hayden ASARCO smelter creates an unprecedented economic hardship. The Town of Hayden relies heavily on the sale of copper as major source of the Town of Hayden revenue. With the smelter shut down, the Town of Hayden is forced to make some difficult decisions over the coming months just to maintain basic town services. It is also considering the possibility of disincorporation.

The Town of Winkelman does not receive direct revenue from the sale of copper but will be severely impacted as well. The Town of Winkelman relies on the Town of Hayden's police services and would not be able to afford police services without the Town of Hayden.

"Both towns operate separately but support each other in many ways. It is difficult to see how the Town of Winkelman could survive long term without the Town of Hayden," said Winkelman Mayor Chaco Bracamonte.

Likewise, the Hayden-Winkelman School District faces some hardships.

"Our District will also be affected over time because some students will leave the area as their parents search for employment," Superintendent Jeff Gregorich said. "At this time, the District has not seen a reduction in enrollment, but it is early into the strike and one could only expect that the school district will lose some students as the strike lingers on. I would expect that the strike will likely hurt all the school districts in the area if it is not

Gila County Supervisor Woody Cline has been meeting with the local leaders from the Town of Hayden and Winkelman over the past several months.

“The County understands the potential impact disincorporating a town would have on the residents and the challenges it would create for everyone. Our concern is that we continue to provide basic and essential services to the residences of both towns, as we work together to find a solution to keep both Towns operating and providing the needed services. This is the top of my list of priorities over the coming year and I appreciate the local leadership in addressing the problem early and involving the County in the process,” Cline said.

Gila County stepped in to keep the public library functioning, although in a limited manner. The library has moved to the Town Hall and shares space with the Senior Center. The Senior Center, also, came close to being closed, but Pinal County Supervisor Pete Rios stepped in with a donation to keep it operating. The Senior Center serves all of eastern Pinal County from Superior to Oracle with congregate meals and meals for homebound seniors.

“We provide our residents with police protection, senior meals, water, fire, sewer, garbage and other basic services people need to live,” said Town of Hayden, Mayor Dean Hetrick. “This is something that we as community leaders need be prepared to address. The earlier we can begin the discussion on the potential options we have as a town, the better. I am directly working with each department heads and asking them to do everything possible to reduce unnecessary expenditures. The council is working closely with the business manager to ensure we can keep the essential town functions operating while making this reduction. Unfortunately, even with major cost cutting strategies, it is difficult to see how the Town of Hayden can continue to provide basic services beyond 2020 without support from outside the town. I am optimistic and hope that there could be an end to the strike soon, but I also want to be honest and up front to our employees and community.”

State Representative David Cook addressed concerns about the tax history of ASARCO and how the company is assessed. He will request the legislative tax policy consultant to review tax payments of ASARCO over the past years to ensure the Town of Hayden is receiving the correct amounts.

The State Capitol meeting with the state and local elected official from all levels of government ended with more questions than answers. The one positive outcome from the meeting is that everyone is aware of the potential crises that is lingering over our communities. There is still time to work through this issue and find solutions to keep both towns operating and providing basic services to our communities.
