Superior Unified School District and Resolution Copper LLC partner to establish an Education Funding Agreement

On Feb. 6, the Superior Unified School Board in partnership with Resolution Copper approved an Education Funding Agreement that will provide $1.2 million to the District and its schools for the funding of education and educational opportunities. Beginning in May 2019, the funding agreement will provide $300,000 a year to the District for the next four years.

The funds will be used to upgrade and enhance K-12 classrooms and programs, support quality instruction through professional development as well as support other SUSD school-wide programs.

"We are grateful for the opportunity that Andrew Lye and Resolution Copper have provided us to improve the quality of education for our Superior students," said SUSD Superintendent Stephen Estatico. "Both Resolution Copper and the Superior Unified School District are committed to creating a 21st Century workforce that will be sustainable for years to come."

Resolution Copper Project Director, Andrew Lye said, "Resolution Copper is dedicated to working with and supporting our neighbors and partners in the community in transforming K-12 education so that all students in Superior schools can acquire and effectively apply the learning skills and knowledge needed to thrive in their studies, careers and adult lives. Resolution Copper and the Superior Unified School District share a vision for the betterment of education and we believe this new investment will help realize our shared vision, benefitting both Resolution Copper and the community."

Resolution Copper and the Superior Unified School District have been partnering to support educational funding for more than 15 years, which was always done on a year-to-year basis. This is the first time that a multi-year funding agreement has been created to support education for the District. SUSD is proud of the new partnership and investment Resolution Copper Mining has made in our district and the potential opportunities this funding will provide for the students of Superior.

Superior Mayor Mila Besich, left, and Andrew Lye, Resolution Project Manager, sign a historic agreement for economic development and other funding for the town.

Resolution, Town of Superior sign historic agreement

The Superior Town Council held a special meeting on Monday, Feb. 11, 2019, to discuss and approve a series of economic and community development agreements between the Town of Superior and Resolution Copper Mining. The Town has been working collaboratively with Resolution Copper on significant economic and community development agreements for the past year. In addition, the Superior Unified School District, Superior Chamber of Commerce and Rebuild Superior, Inc. also participated in the development of these agreements.

A total of three agreements were presented to the Town Council for approval. The first agreement is a contract in the amount of $200,000 to fund playground and park improvements for the US 60 Park. This agreement is part of the mitigations for the loss of the historic smelter structures that were demolished in November of 2018. This funding will be used to build a new mining-themed playground at the US 60 Park and will be combined with funding through the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding allocated for park improvement projects. Work is expected to begin on these park improvements later this year. The Town of Superior Youth Council will be selecting the playground equipment and assisting with the US 60 park remodel.

The second agreement is a contract in the amount of $2 million to help fund the design, development and construction of a Multi-Generation Center (on the Roosevelt property), which will include a new gym, library, senior center and other venue spaces in the community. Developing and constructing a Multi-Generational Center is a top priority established by the Superior Town Council in 2018. The Multi-Generational Center will combine critical town services into one location, creating synergies and cost-savings among Town Government departments. Most importantly, having a Multi-Generational Center will substantially enhance the quality of life in Superior, offering modern, safe spaces and venues for the town's youth and senior citizens alike. The total project cost is estimated at $4 million. Resolution Copper Mining's contribution will provide half of the estimated total project cost, and the agreement commits the Town of Superior and Resolution Copper to raise the additional $2 million that is needed through grants and foundation funding. The Town has already begun meeting with various grant agencies and foundations to establish relationships and lay the groundwork for soliciting funding for the Multi-Generational Center. Resolution Copper Mining's funding will pay for the initial design to get the project going during the first two years, with the remaining funds being released for construction once the additional funds are raised for construction.

The third agreement is specifically designed to attract and incubate new businesses in Superior, which will help to advance the continued economic diversification of Superior's economy. The Entrepreneurship and Innovation Center contract is in the amount of $1.29 million dollars. The funds will be used to construct a business incubator and makerspace center. The first year of funding for this contract will allow

together to bring CTE classes to local HS students

By Jennifer R. Carnes
Copper Area News

And the partnership grows.

A historic meeting of sorts happened last week on the Central Arizona College Aravaipa Campus. Representatives of six school districts met to talk about joining forces and making technical training a little easier for students to obtain.

All four high school districts in the Copper Corridor, CAC and the Cobre Valley Institute of Technology (CVIT) are working together to bring some special classes to high school students at one location – the Aravaipa campus.

“This meeting was long overdue,” said Pete Guzman, CVIT’s superintendent.

Superior, Ray and Hayden-Winkelman School Districts are all members of CVIT. Mammoth-San Manuel School District is a member of Pima County JTED.

JTEDs (Joint Technical Education Districts), now called CTEDs (Career and Technical Education Districts), were created in Arizona in 1990. There are currently 14 districts in Arizona. CTEDs provide high school students with career and technical education so that they can enter the workforce as soon as they graduate from high school.

CTEDs, Guzman said, give high school students “more options.”

Let’s face it. Not all students are college bound. CTE classes allow students to earn industry certificates. CTE classes also keep at risk students in school.

Mike O’Neal, who serves as the principal of CVIT, told the success story of one high school student who was at risk of dropping out.

The young man enrolled in the certified nursing assistant program. During the course of the program, he was required to complete an internship at a Globe skilled nursing facility. When he finished the program and successfully passed the state’s licensing exam, the skilled nursing facility hired him.

He is 16 years old and works full time at the nursing home. He does three 12-hour shifts Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and with shift differential is making $18 an hour. He is still in high school, attending classes Monday through Thursday at Miami High School. He now wants to go to college and become a nurse.

How amazing is that?

CVIT was formed in 2000 and with Ray High School has six member schools: Superior, Globe, Miami, San Carlos, Hayden and Ray. Hayden has been a member since its inception nearly 20 years ago. Superior was also an early adopter. Ray School District joined CVIT in the 2017-18 school year after Ray’s voters overwhelmingly said, “Yes, please!”

Due to state laws governing these joint districts, school districts can only join CTEDs that abut the district boundaries. Mammoth-San Manuel School District joined the Pima County JTED.

There are two types of programs offered through CTEDs: satellite programs and central programs. Satellite programs are taught on the campuses of the member schools. Central programs are taught at a more central location. For CVIT, central programs are held at Gila Community College in Globe. For Pima County JTED, programs are taught at Master Pieces Campus (located at River and Shannon in Tucson) and Camino Seco Campus (located at Camino Seco and 22nd St. in East Tucson). Students attending schools that are members of a JTED or whose parents live in a district that are members can participate in a Central program or can attend any satellite program.

Over the past years, Hayden and Superior students have been transported to Globe-Miami to take part in classes offered by the CVIT: fire science, cosmetology, certified nursing assistant (CNA) training and a number of computer technology programs. Classes are held daily usually in the early afternoon in two-hour blocks. The classes are early so that students who also participate in sports can still do so.

Pima County JTED’s central classes are held after school and students typically attend two to four classes a week (depending on the program) from 3:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Some programs also require the students to attend two Saturday classes a month. Most of the programs are two-year programs. The EMT program, for example, requires that the student first complete Health Care Foundations, Fire Service or Law/Public Safety. This is the first year that San Manuel High School students have had school-sponsored transportation to attend the Pima County JTED central programs at Master Pieces, thanks to a grant from SaddleBrooke Community Outreach. It’s a commitment for the students.

Students can also stay at their own campus and participate in programs offered there. Classes offered include:

- Hayden – culinary, education professions, business, law and public safety and graphics.
- Ray – welding, construction and graphics/web design.
- Superior – culinary, business, education professions, early childhood development and hospitality.
- San Manuel – agriscience/animal systems, automotive, cabinetmaking, carpentry, digital communications, digital photography, early childhood education and welding.

Ray High School’s welding class began during the 2017-18 school year and was a partnership between Ray and Hayden High School. Hayden students were bused to the Kearny campus and attended classes there. The program has been extremely successful under the guidance of teacher Sam Colton.

“(With CTEDs) you’ll see rival schools working together,” O’Neal said.

Also during the 2017-18 school year, CVIT held its first central program at the Aravaipa campus, certified nursing assistant. According to Guzman, the nursing program at Aravaipa had 10 out of 11 students complete the program – 10 Ray and Hayden High School students.

Next year, Ray’s welding class will be moving to the Aravaipa campus, giving the students two central classes (along with the CNA program). The two classes will be offered to students at all four high schools in the Copper Corridor.

In an unprecedented move, Pima County JTED has agreed to partner with CVIT to allow San Manuel students to attend the Aravaipa classes. This will cut their travel time from over an hour one way to less than 30 minutes. According to Guzman, the Superintendent of Pima County

JTED, Kathy Prather, has committed to this joint venture, including funding. Guzman said he was told to “get it done.”

Maria Munoz, Director of Student Affairs at Central Arizona College, knows that they have to start small. The success of the CNA program has paved the way for the addition of the welding class next year.

She has dreams, though, of what the program would look like in the future. Building on welding, she’d like to see programs in diesel mechanics and carpentry. In addition to CNA, she dreams of high school students becoming Medical Assistants, Pharmacy Techs, Phlebotomists. She would also like to add fire science and EMT programs for high school students.

It’s not the impossible dream.

“We’ve done it!” Guzman said. “It can be done. There are 10 community colleges (in Arizona) that are doing it now.” It just needs the students.

And they will come.

Assessor Wolf sends out 2020 Notice of Value statements

FLORENCE, AZ – The 2020 Notice of Value statements were mailed to property owners in Pinal County on Friday, February 8th, 2019.

A rise in values for 2020 does not automatically mean an increase in property taxes next year. Each taxing authority will set their levy and tax rate next year. If the levy (portion of the budget collected through property taxes) is the same or similar to the year before, then the average tax bill is not changed significantly. If a taxing authority raises their levy substantially, the property tax from that individual authority could rise accordingly.

Property taxes are based on the Limited Property Value (LPV) as a result of Proposition 117. The LPV, in most cases, cannot increase by more than 5 percent per year and cannot exceed the Full Cash Value (market value). The Full Cash Value is still listed for each property but no taxes are based upon this number.

The deadline to file an administrative appeal of the valuation or legal class for the 2020 notices is April 9th, 2019. More information on the appeal process and the required forms can be found on the Assessor's website at www.pinalcountyaz.gov/assessor or by calling 311 from anywhere in Pinal County.
