LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Volunteer at the Visitor's Center

My name is Mary Abrahamsen. My husband, Toby, and I have lived in Superior since 1989. I wanted to write and say thank you to the Superior Chamber of Commerce, and everyone involved in the Annual Superior Home and Building Tour.

I can't even imagine how much time, energy and preparation goes into making the weekend such a success.

I've went the past three years and enjoyed it very much. I appreciate all those who have opened their home to the public. What a fun weekend in Superior, for hundreds of people.

On another subject, I would like to encourage those living in Superior to contact the Chamber of Commerce about becoming a volunteer at the Caboose Visitor's Center. I've been doing it about a year. There are a few that have been there, volunteering, since it started. I enjoy it. You meet interesting people promote the businesses and the beautiful surrounding area of Superior. The hours and days are flexible, and, it is easy to learn what to do.

Buffalo Soldiers and the Brownsville Affair

By John Hernandez
Copper Area News

February is Black History Month. This month was chosen to honor the births of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglas. Douglas was a former slave who became a leader in the abolitionist movement. He was a writer, newspaper editor and orator who wrote and fought for civil rights and against racism. President Lincoln, we know, freed the slaves in 10 states of the Confederacy that had rebelled against the Union with his Executive Order known as the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863. This would set the stage for the passing of the 13th Amendment that would abolish slavery in the United States in 1865. The Emancipation Proclamation also allowed for freed slaves to join the United States military. During the Civil

The Cheyenne began telling stories about a new kind of soldier 'who had fought like a cornered buffalo' and had 'thick and mangly hair like the buffalo'.

War 200,000 blacks joined the Union Army. They would serve in segregated units. The segregation of blacks in the military would continue until 1948 when President Truman issued Executive Order 9981 forbidding discrimination against military personnel based on race, color, religion or national origin.

When African Americans were granted the right to vote in 1870 with the passage of the 15th Amendment to the constitution, a large majority of them joined the Republican Party, the party of Lincoln. African Americans and other minorities would continue to struggle for voting and civil rights. A number of incidents would begin to turn African Americans away from the Republican Party. One major incident would involve one of the segregated military units, the 25th Infantry. By this time the African American soldiers serving in the segregated army units were known honorably as the "Buffalo Soldiers".

African Americans have fought and died for our country from the Revolutionary War to the present. They not only fought this country's enemies but had to fight prejudice, segregation, and ignorance as well. Following the Civil War in 1866, six black regiments led by white commanders were formed. They would later be consolidated into four regiments, the 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 24th and 25th infantries. Originally the 10th Cavalry formed at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas and would earn the name Buffalo Soldiers during the Indian Wars in the west. It would then be applied to all of the black regiments. Although historical sources disagree about how they got their name, it is believed that it originated with the Cheyenne warriors in the winter of 1867.

The story told was about a 10th Cavalry soldier Private John Randall who was assigned to guide two civilians on a hunting trip. While hunting, they were attacked by 70 Cheyenne warriors. In a running gun battle the two civilians were killed and Randall's horse was shot out from under him. Randall was able to run and find some cover in a washout underneath some railroad tracks. Although wounded and armed only with his pistol, he held off the warriors until troops arrived. The Indians fled when they saw the troopers approaching. The soldiers found Randall alive with a bullet in his shoulder and 11 lance wounds. Thirteen Cheyenne warriors lay dead. He would survive to fight another day. The Cheyenne began telling stories about a new kind of soldier "who had fought like a cornered buffalo" and had "thick and mangly hair like the buffalo".

The Buffalo Soldiers would fight in the Indian Wars on the Great Plains and in the southwest. They would also fight in the Spanish American War, the Philippine Insurrection, World War I and World War II. They policed the National Parks before there were park rangers and patrolled the Mexican Border before the Border Patrol was formed. They participated in the hunt for Pancho Villa under General John "Black Jack" Pershing who would become general of the armies in World War I. Pershing got his nickname of Black Jack from serving as a Lieutenant in the 10th Cavalry. He was known to praise the black troops and treated them with professionalism. While teaching at West Point, Pershing was unpopular with the cadets because he was a strict disciplinarian. The cadets and other military officers knew of Pershing's service commanding black troops. They took to calling him "N*r Jack", a racial slur behind his back. It would be softened to Black Jack although the intent was still meant to be disrespectful.

When the Buffalo Soldiers were first formed, many white military officers did not want to serve with them. Some that did were prejudiced and treated them poorly. The troops also put up with being supplied with second rate weapons and equipment as well as old worn out horses. Despite this, from 1867 to 1898 they received the most Congressional Medals of Honor and had the lowest desertion rate of any regiment in the U.S. Army. In many of the areas where they were assigned, the Buffalo Soldiers faced racial discrimination from the civilian population. This was especially true in former confederate states. On July 28, 1906 the 25th Infantry arrived at Fort Brown near the town of Brownsville, Texas along the Mexican border.

As soon as the soldiers arrived they faced discrimination and racial prejudice. Segregation was legal in Texas at the time. Soldiers who had entered local saloons looking for a drink were told the bar only served whites. Racial slurs taunted them on the streets. Two soldiers were assaulted by a white man for walking on the sidewalk in what he felt was too close proximity to a group of white women. The man knocked one of the soldiers down from behind by striking him in the head with the butt of his pistol. He then threatened to shoot both soldiers if they did not leave town. A Buffalo Soldier would get into a fight with a store owner.

On Aug. 13 a white woman alleged that a black man in a khaki uniform had grabbed her by the hair although she managed to get away. Threats were allegedly made by the woman's husband that Negro soldiers would be shot on sight if caught on the streets of Brownsville. Tensions were running high in Brownsville which was only about 400 yards from Ft. Brown. Major Penrose, commanding officer at the fort ordered a curfew and confined the 25th to camp grounds unless on official military business or they had a pass. All soldiers were required to be in the fort by 8 p.m.

Around midnight on Aug. 13-14, gunfire erupted in a business section of town. One white man was killed outside of a saloon and a Hispanic police officer was seriously wounded. The townspeople blamed the shooting on the Buffalo Soldiers. They claimed that over a dozen soldiers attacked the town indiscriminately firing between 100 and 200 shots into the buildings aligning the street. The soldiers at the fort aroused by the sound of gunfire began preparing to defend the fort.

During an investigation of the alleged incident, Major Penrose said that all soldiers at the fort had been accounted for as well as all the rifles in the armory. The guns had also been checked to see if they had been fired recently with negative results. Penrose said that all the men at the fort had denied involvement or knowing anything about anyone leaving the fort to go into town. The people of Brownsville called out for further investigation by state authorities and letters were sent to President Theodore Roosevelt asking him to look into the matter and remove all the black soldiers from Fort Brown.

Fifth annual Cancer Fight by Candlelight set for March 15

The Superior High School Family Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) are once again planning their annual Cancer Fight by Candlelight event, scheduled for Saturday, March 15, 2014.

There are several ways you can celebrate, remember and fight back and help these Superior teens raise money for the American Cancer Society.

By registering to walk in the walk or making a donation to dedicate a luminaria, you can participate in this event.

Registration fee for the walk is $10 and includes a t-shirt; $12 for 2 X or 3 X. Those registering the day of the walk will not receive a t-shirt.

Walkers will need to meet at the top of Sunset Drive by 5:30 p.m. on the day of the event, as the walk starts at 6 p.m.

If you are unable to participate in the walk you can make a $1, $5 or $10 donation to dedicate a luminaria to remember those who have passed from cancer or honor those fighting or surviving cancer. The luminarias will be lined up and lit on Sunset Drive for the walk.

Pre-registration for the walk and luminaria donations can be made by contacting the FCCLA sponsors Ariel Alonzo at 480-298-7828, Ciarra Villaverde at 480-528-8473, or Valerie Garcia at 520-689-3100.

Following the walk there will be concessions, music and entertainment available at the Superior High School Football Field.

Free workshops for entrepreneurs and small businesses to be held in Kearny

Kearny - Have you always wanted to start your own business or grow the one you have? Are you sure you want to get started, but, fuzzy on the details of what you need to do?

It may seem that with the economy being what it is, that it is a bad time to start a business. The fact is, there is never a perfect time to launch, or not to launch, a business based on larger economic trends. If the economy is doing poorly, you are more likely to be able to find good deals on rental space and equipment, while, if the economy is strong there are more consumers out there with dollars burning holes in their pockets. So, how do you know if your idea is right for the economic time you are dealing with? You do your homework and learn from those who already know what they are doing.

sure that what you have already started stays on the right track, call 520-490-8433 to reserve a seat for one, or all four, free workshops which will be presented by the Copper Corridor Business Success Center over the next few months at the Church of the Good Shepherd, in Ray Hall, 617 Danbury Road, Highway 177 in Kearny.

Each session provides tools you can use, immediately, to start or expand your business. It's a chance to learn from experts and network with other business owners in the Copper Corridor. Join us for relaxed and informative workshops.

All workshops are held on Tuesdays, from 11 am - 1 pm. On Feb. 18, the course is Starting Your Own Business; Mar. 4 brings you How to Market Your Service or Product; Developing Your Brand will be held Mar. 18; and, the series will wrap up on April 8 with Social Media 101.

Copper Basin Women's Expo update

By Nina Crowder
Copper Area News

Martina Burnam is working hard putting together the speakers, presenters, and vendors for the annual Women's Expo at Hayden High School on March 8. There is plenty of room for more vendors and speakers. This is a terrific opportunity for people to learn about job opportunities and listen to people who have started their own jobs. Those present can learn about hiking in the area and many other things.

The confirmed vendors are Watkins, Central Arizona College, Anne Howe, Northern Arizona University, Pampered

The confirmed speakers are ZORT and Ebay Store, Mediocre Meditation, Rainbow Looming and Hiking Arizona.

If you are interested in participating, having a booth, being a speaker, or have a special skill you would like to share with others please feel free to contact Angela Ramirez at the Copper Basin Chamber of Commerce at 520-363-7607 or email: angela@copperbasinaz.com. Let's make this year's Copper Basin Expo a great success!

How to Live Victorious Lives

By Rev. Dennis Van Gorp
Family Life Christian Center

The Holy Scriptures always speak to us in ways that we can understand. In Job 28, we find these interesting words.

"There is a mine for silver, and a place where gold is refined. Iron is taken from the earth and copper is smelted from ore. Man searches the farthest recesses for ore in the blackest darkness. He cuts a shaft and dangles and sways in it. Sapphires come from its rocks and its dust contains gold nuggets. Man tunnels through the rock and his eyes see all the treasures. But where can wisdom be found? Where does understanding live? It cannot be bought with gold nor can its price be weighed in silver."

In verse 28, we read, "The fear of the LORD – that is wisdom, to shun evil is understanding.

These things come through worshipping and loving our Lord God. In His grace and mercy, He blesses us with His eternal wisdom and divine understanding, so that we can live victorious lives.

What women should know about heart attacks

From Pinal Rural Fire & Rescue, Mammoth Information By Rachel Rabkin Peachman, Health Magazine

An estimated 38,000 women under age 50 have heart attacks each year in the U.S. But heart trouble can easily be confused with other ailments, like indigestion. Check out our symptom decoder so you don't miss any warning signs.

Tingling down one or both arms or legs

While this often means you've got a pinched nerve or arthritis in your neck, it's important to rule out heart problems first. See your doctor if you notice any tingling in your extremities.

Nausea/vomiting

You could have more than just a bug if your upset stomach comes along with other heart-related symptoms, such as shortness of breath, a cold sweat or pain in your chest or back.

Shortness of breath/racing heart

It can be really difficult to differentiate between a panic attack and a heart attack, since they share these symptoms. A few tells: Panic attacks can be triggered by a stressful event (though not always), and other signs can include trembling, intense terror and an overwhelming sense of doom. Panic attacks also typically come on suddenly and should pass within five minutes, while women's heart-attack symptoms tend to start slowly and linger. The only way to be sure about what's happening, however, is to get to the ER.

Jaw pain

Your jaw could hurt if you're having a heart attack, because the nerves attached to it lie close to ones that come out of your heart. If the pain is constant, you probably have a dental problem; if it pops up intermittently and gets worse when you exert yourself, it's more likely to be heart-related.

Dizziness/light-headedness

Feeling faint for no obvious reason (like doing a tough workout or being dehydrated) could mean that not enough blood is getting to the heart, especially if you're also suffering from shortness of breath and a cold sweat.

Discomfort or burning in the chest or back

Women often describe a heart attack as tightness, heaviness, pressure or a squeezing sensation. The pain doesn't have to be severe or sudden; it could come and go for weeks, so it's often mistaken for indigestion or heartburn. If it doesn't come on shortly after a meal, if you don't normally have indigestion or if you're also experiencing symptoms such as nausea, it needs to be checked promptly by a doctor.

Extreme fatigue

If you're unable to walk a block comfortably or if you feel like you have to stop and rest while going about your daily activities, it could be a sign that blood is not getting to the heart fast enough.

Volunteers Needed

Are you a people person? Want to give unto others and assist those experiencing a challenging time?

Copper Communities Hospice is looking for volunteers that are interested in visiting with patients. Volunteers attend an 8-hour training session, must be able to pass a background check, have a driver's license, current auto insurance and their own reliable transportation. TB skin test is required (we will provide).

Volunteers devote a minimum of 2 hours a week.

If your organization or group would like more information or would like to have a Hospice Presentation detailing the hospice volunteer services, please feel free to call Debra Green, Volunteer Coordinator, at 520-391-3000. We will gladly set up arrangements.

An Advertising Proverb

When Mark Twain was editing a newspaper in Missouri, one of his subscribers wrote in, saying that he had found a spider in his newspaper and wondered whether it was a sign of good or bad luck. Twain's response: "Finding a spider is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our newspaper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

BUFFALO SOLDIERS

was sent to investigate and said that he had 12 suspects including the soldier that had been assaulted on the streets in Brownsville. He turned in his investigation to state officials. The investigation results were submitted to a grand jury but they refused to indict the suspects. McDonald persuaded a judge to issue arrest warrants for his 12 suspects. Major Penrose refused to turn over his men fearing they could possibly be lynched.

A federal investigation was ordered by President Roosevelt. All 167 soldiers were questioned, and even though they were threatened with being discharged from the service, they said they were not involved and had no knowledge of anyone leaving the fort to go into town. The report came back stating that there was a "conspiracy of silence" among all the soldiers of the 25th Infantry. President Roosevelt in an unprecedented action ordered all 167 black soldiers dishonorably discharged. Most of these men had been in the army over five years. A number of them had over 15 years of honorable service. Six of the Buffalo Soldiers had been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's highest award for valor. A court-martial was ordered for Major Penrose and Captain Macklin, white officers of the 25th for negligence of duty. They were both acquitted.

Black leaders and some white congressmen tried to get Roosevelt to change his mind but he refused. He was reminded that the Buffalo Soldiers had fought at his side in Cuba, including the famous charge up San Juan Hill. Some historians believe the Buffalo Soldiers were actually the first troops to charge up the hill and they bore the brunt of the fighting, although Roosevelt and his volunteer "Rough Riders" would get the credit. W.E.B. Dubois, a civil rights activist, author, and one of the co-founders of the NAACP urged African Americans to register to vote and remember Roosevelt and the Republicans during the next election.

Texas congressmen and a few others from the south would attempt to pass legislation to remove all African Americans from the military and ban them from future service but the bills would fail. In 1909 after government hearings, 14 soldiers from the 25th would be approved to reenlist. In 1972, congressional hearings were held which exonerated the Buffalo Soldiers of the 25th Infantry from the charges brought against them. It also acknowledged that they had never been granted their due process rights. Although most of the soldiers had died, two survivors received a small cash settlement and a pension. A few widows also received survivor benefits.

On July 25, 1992 a Memorial Park consisting of the Buffalo Soldiers Monument, Circle of Firsts, and the Walkway of Units which commemorates the significant "firsts" in the history of African American soldiers and units in the United State's Army was dedicated at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. General Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the first African American to serve in that position led the dedication. He acknowledged that without the Buffalo Soldiers he would never have come as far as he had in his career. He said, "The powerful purpose of this monument is to motivate us. To motivate us to keep struggling until all Americans have an equal seat at our national table, until all Americans enjoy every opportunity to excel, every chance to achieve their dream."

Cards of Thanks

The Brisbin family would like to thank everyone who came to honor Robert J. Brisbin aka The Professor at his memorial. They would like to thank the Masons for use of the Lodge, the OES for side dishes, and both for preparing the lodge. A huge thanks to Rose and Brian Hanne for making things run smoothly and the preparations they did. We'd like to thank Christine Giorsetti for picking up the cold cuts for it. Superior Circle K for donating drinks again. Thank you to Jeff Giorsetti for conducting the regular service and Robert Conrad for conducting the Masonic part of the service.

Robert wishes to thank everyone for a great send off. God Bless You!

Cards of Thanks

Our beloved husband, father and grandfather Gary L. Smith passed away on January 2, 2014 and we wanted to say thank you to all of you, who visited during his illness, came to his services, brought food, cards, called or had us in your thoughts and prayers that day. Words can never fully express all we want to say or what we truly felt at having all of you at our side during this time. To Jimmy Fessenden and Gary's fellow employees at Asarco mine that gave of themselves so that we wouldn't have worries, your kindness will never be forgotten and to see all of you give a final farewell as we passed by Asarco will be in our hearts forever. To Griffith Mortuary, thank you for all your help; it was very much appreciated. And to Pastor David Wade, thank you for the beautiful words during the services. To Linda Mariscal, Virginia Estrada and all the ladies that helped to bring the luncheon together, we are very grateful to all of you and all that you did. To all Gary's friends and family that spoke at the services sharing memories of Gary, we were so happy that you did this for him and for us.

To all our family and friends that were with us during this difficult time your thoughtfulness and caring will never be forgotten. Sofie Hinojos, Virginia Estrada, Eva Escalante, Gia Lagunas and Mary Corona who made sure that everything ran smoothly in our home during this difficult time, words cannot ever express our gratitude.

A special thanks to thanks to the following: Susie Smith who was there to help me take Gary to the hospital on several occasions, you made such a difference when we both needed you. Mary Corona who continues to help us daily with things that need to be done. I am grateful for having a friend like you.

All of you made a difference for us when we needed you most and this will never, ever be forgotten we are truly blessed to have people like you in our lives and we thank you for everything all of you did for us when we needed you most.

Thank you.

Linda Smith, Sons Darylle and Brian Smith, Grandchildren Gavin, Jayden, Alyah & Brian Amadeus

Resolution Copper Company, part of the Rio Tinto group, is currently looking for a dynamic Training Coordinator to join our team in Superior, Arizona.

The Resolution Project holds a large world class copper deposit located at a depth of 7000ft adjacent and below to a previous mining operation, the Magma Mine. The project is located in a traditional mining district known as the copper triangle. The project is currently in the pre-feasibility stage of project development.

For more information about the Resolution Copper, please visit www.resolutioncopper.com.

Primary Purpose:

The team member will track and control training records, notifications, administer training center duties and assist with the creation and management of LMS training courses. The team member's focus is to safely and efficiently carry out assigned tasks to ensure timely and accurate delivery of training.

Problem Solving:

- The person in this role will need a solid understanding of the mine site, administration offices and the stakeholders within various contractor organizations so that he/she can send individuals to the right place/position to get questions answered.
- The person will troubleshoot LMS/database issues and assist others in finding resolution to their LMS/training database inquiries including research into the area causing the problem.
- Must be willing to ask questions when in doubt and interact with multiple departments and stakeholders.

Key Relationships:

- This person will interact daily with all levels of the organization, hourly through salary as well as external contractors, vendor's inspectors, auditors and regulators.
- The person in this role will need to be a problem solver, have good time management and excellent customer service skills, be assertive and innovative (find solutions to the problems/questions people bring in to the office). Nature of interaction is frequent and requires accurate delivery of important information with respect to training documentation.

Education and Qualifications:

College/University Education:

- High School Diploma or Equivalent, B.A. in training, education or Human Resources preferred

Other Qualifications:

- Must be proficient in Windows based applications including Microsoft Word, Excel, Power Point and Outlook.
- Site leader for ITMS/training database with familiarity of other Rio Tinto systems i.e. ITMS
- Other requirements include: the ability to manage numerous tasks while giving special attention to detail and accuracy, flexibility; being a team player; treating all information with confidentiality; and the ability to work with employees at all levels of the organization in a professional and helpful matter.

Technical Competencies & Skills:

Ability to learn and use the functions of SAP, ability to use and navigate Microsoft suite. Willingness to learn new software applications.

Relevant Experience:

- Experience in a fast paced and accurate environment is required
- Experience in an environment with strict state and federal requirements with regard to documentation preferred
- Prior experience with training database systems i.e. LMS and/or SAP a plus
- Experience working with confidential documents

Accountibilities:

- Maintain RCM HSE Training Needs Analysis Matrix and associated plans
- Maintain the RCM HSE Training Tracker Database including creating/loading classes, assigning courses to RCM employees, running reports, complying with MSHA and Rio Tinto training schedule, ensuring accuracy of entries and troubleshooting issues

- Prepare weekly, monthly, quarterly and annual reports to RCM, Rio Tinto and other external agencies (ie MSHA) as required, ensuring accuracy
- Ensure relevant versions of applicable controlled documents are available at point of use
- Notify & coordinate training for employees

- Track HSE Management System and Performance Standards training attendance and ensure employee compliance with training requirements
- Receive instruction from functional trainers within RCM
- Communicate with various levels of the organization as required to maintain training and compliance quality, status, expectations and performance

Identify, file, maintain, label and audit training and compliance records (i.e. 5000-23s, completed work permits, reports)

- Schedule, organize, maintain, and communicate training programs and course schedules
- Respond to inquiries regarding training and compliance processes, programs and employee requirements
- Files/maintains and audits contractor/employee training forms
- Understand training and compliance requirements for each role/employee
- Creates training and compliance documents as requested
