LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Girl bullied in school, urges district to protect others

My name is Andi Tomerlin. I was born and raised here in Superior and have lived here my entire life. I attended Superior Unified School District from the ages of four to 15, and I have something to say about it: I'm angry.

SUSD preaches about no child left behind and no tolerance for bullying. Me, and many of my peers, have attended multiple mandatory presentations on bullying and the harmful effects of it. We've had guest speakers come in and talk about it. We have been told to go to the staff to report any bullying or mistreatment of others, and we were told it would be handled in a timely and fair manner. When exactly will SUSD start practicing what they preach?

Yes, I was bullied. I wasn't just picked on a little bit at recess. I was completely outcasted from the rest, and any time I spoke up for myself, I would get nothing but harsh words and threats in return. It was a miserable experience, only made worse by the inattentive staff. My mom and dad put their trust in SUSD to protect me while I spent my seven and-a-half hours a day trying to get an education that was never acquired. Every time I went to the teachers, or the principal, everything was swept under the rug and my cries for help were ignored, and I was eventually forced out of SUSD and into another district.

The effects of the bullying and constant stress didn't go away once I was at this new school, and eventually I had to be admitted to a behavioral center where I had to be under constant watch and care because of the psychological toll this had on me. I've had to undergo years of counseling. I would like to know why. Why was this mistreatment of me tolerated? Why was it always turned around to look like it was my fault? Why was I forced to be quiet every time I advocated for myself? Why does SUSD allow this to happen to other students?

Due to some family issues, I had to come back to SUSD. I thought this time around things would be better; I have never been so wrong in my life. I was afraid to go to school. The school board and staff promised all of us that we wouldn't be mistreated. Each and every one of our voices would be heard. We would be cared about. Most importantly, we would be safe at school. I guess that only applied for students who played sports, had money, and were friends with/related to the people with power, whoever those people are/were. Superior only cares about students that fit the majority. You couldn't care less about the minority students, like me.

I remember one specific incidence in 2013. A group of girls were harshly bullying me and my friends for no reason besides we were "different". The school had been notified multiple times of this. One of the girls threw a tennis ball very hard at my friends and nearly hit one of them in the head. The ball missed her by mere inches. This very well could have caused a broken nose, black eye, or a concussion. I had enough. My temper finally got the best of me, so I walked up to the girl and cussed at her for doing what she did, then I walked to the office and called my mom. What happened after that is a blur because my adrenaline was pumping and my emotions were very strong, but I remember the school principal at the time telling me I had no right to do what I did. I needed to notify the school of what was happening. This instance is a perfect example of how blatantly I was ignored. Perhaps I could have handled this situation in a more civilized manner, but what else am I supposed to do when my cries for help are being ignored by everyone? I was at wits end. I was tired. I was angry. I felt personally attacked. Why was it deemed OK to ignore me in my time of need, after you promised your students were always protected?

I remember walking into my first day of freshman year and nearly having a nervous breakdown. I went for three days and my mom withdrew me from school and enrolled me in online school. Online school proved to be too difficult for me because I had a lot of holes and gaps in my education, so she withdrew me and I decided to give Superior one last chance. Maybe, out of sheer luck, I'd finally have a good experience. Once again, I was wrong.

At this point, I gave up on fighting back. I gave up on trying to advocate for myself. I figured if I just flew under the radar, my experience wouldn't be as terrible as last time. And in a way, I was right. Almost everyone ignored me because I kept to myself for the most part. That isn't the high school experience I wanted. It's not the experience anyone wants. I shouldn't have to shut up and conform to everyone and be invisible to protect myself. No child should ever have to pretend to be something they are not just to protect themselves. I, or any other child, should never ever have to shut up and accept mistreatment because you won't protect them like you said.

Because of SUSD, I had no chance at a normal childhood or adolescence. I realize you can't force anyone to be my friend. You can't force the sports teams to let me play. You can't force the teachers to give me passing grades. Those things are not just the things I'm angry about. I'm angry because SUSD let people call me fat, ugly, stupid, worthless, and many more ugly things every-day of my life. I'm angry because SUSD let people tell me I should go ahead and kill myself. I'm angry because SUSD let people threaten me with bodily harm. I'm angry because SUSD let this happen with no repercussions whatsoever to the people who were doing this to me. Because of SUSD, I felt I deserved all of this treatment. I felt I would never be heard. I would never matter.

School should not make kids cry themselves to sleep at night. It should not be feared. It should not make them want to hurt themselves or end their lives. It should be a place of education and safety, and SUSD is neither of those things.

Now, because of SUSD's lack of enforcing policies and rules, I have dropped out and am currently enrolled in GED classes. I have to miss all of my high school experiences now. I won't have many fond memories to look back on. I can't go to formals, or prom, or FCCLA or DECA conferences. I can't play on any teams. I can't go to class and learn. I can't sit with my friends at lunch. I can't participate in anything normal teenagers take for granted, because SUSD allowed me to be mistreated to the point where I could not go to school without having anxiety attacks or worse.

Parents, you need to be involved in your children's lives. If your child is being bullied, you need to take a stand and defend them. Advocate for them. Never take no for an answer when it comes to your child's safety. Demand answers and solutions always and don't stop advocating no matter how discouraged you may feel. If your child is a bully, hold them accountable. We need to stop telling the victims to "toughen up and deal with it". Bullying has evolved into way more than a fight during recess on the playground. It's a lot more complex, violent, sexual, and personal than it used to be.

I am not infallible. I have been a bully before. Nobody is immune to bullying or being bullied, but as a community we can help fix this issue. We can speak out for the safety of our children. We can put our foot down when we feel we our children are being treated unjustly. We have to change this before more children go through something similar to what I went through, and what many others have gone through.

Education about bullying and treating others starts at home, but it is also the responsibility of our school to protect our students. We need to start holding them accountable for their failures instead of pretending like this issue doesn't exist. I won't keep quiet about this any longer. I will take a stand. I will speak out, and I will not be intimidated any longer.

Sincerely,

/s/ Andi Tomerlin

This year's Hall of Fame deemed a success

By Mila Besich-Lira
Superior Sun

Friendships, education, community, family, tradition and respect, were all words that the 2015 inductees used to describe how their education in Superior helped them to achieve the success they have earned in their careers and adult lives. The families of Fernando Vender and Betty Blaylock also shared how their parents life in Superior extended onto them as they grew up and even as they raised their children.

Each of the delegates had brief heartfelt remarks about receiving their awards; they shared stories of their growing up in Superior and how it affected their ability to succeed.

Lucy Wing in her acceptance speech encouraged all of the inductees to share their success with Superior. "Come back and do something good for the Town," she encouraged.

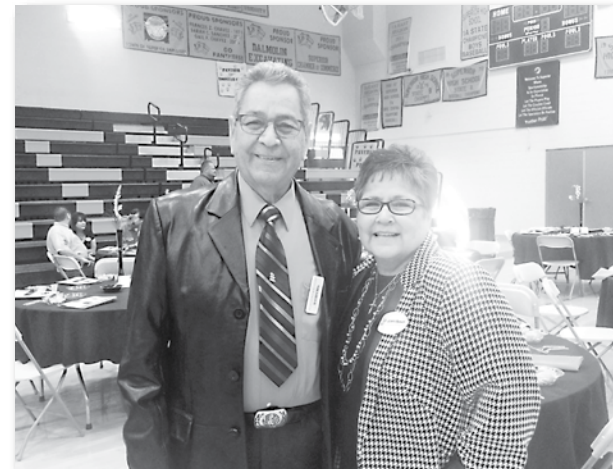

James Ray shared a story of how Gallo Villareal saved his life when they were swimming in the number one and he wanted to publicly thank him for saving his life.

Ronald Gomez talked of recognized his wife for always supporting him and raising their children. He also talked of how we must stand up against discrimination, even today.

Yolanda Najera-Ewing thanked her husband Bob for always supporting her through everything.

Many of the inductees had family and friends who traveled from out of state to participate in the ceremony and many past inductees attended the event to celebrate with the new hall of fame recipients. The event becomes a reunion of sorts, bringing people back to town, many of them have not visited in decades.

The event was catered by the Superior High School food service students, decorations were provided by Rose's Roses and photography was done by Desert Expressions Photography, all local vendors in Superior.

Apache Leap Mining Festival slated for March 14-15

March 14 and 15 are the dates for Superior's 27th annual Apache Leap Mining Festival. As the gateway to the Copper Corridor we are celebrating all of the mining communities in our area. Several towns will have booths to promote the special things in their communities. Talk to mining companies and learn about copper mining in the area...both underground and open pit types. Resolution Copper will explain the mining plan for one of the largest deposits of copper in North America.

The event kicks off on Saturday with a parade, Chihuahua races, a grueling mining competition with a $2,000 purse, and the renowned Navajo Dance Group, Dineh Tah', from New Mexico. This award winning group has performed throughout the country and shares their rich cultural traditions through dance and song. More entertainment includes shootouts with the OK Chorale, Wyatt Earp presenting "Wyatt Earp, a Life on the Frontier", magic acts, animal acts and more. Try your luck with panning for gold while the youngsters pan for copper. Sip a beer in the beer garden and enjoy the vivacious Samba Dancers, followed by our headliner band, led by Bobby Cook, a Superiorite who regularly entertains in Las Vegas. Kick up your heels and enjoy the Saturday night street dance. The young, and young at heart, will enjoy the carnival with rides for all ages. Food and vendors galore. Located just 30 minutes east of Apache Junction. Free except carnival and vendors. The address is 165 W. Main St., Superior, 85173. Times for the event are Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Hosted by the Superior Chamber of Commerce with Premier Sponsor Resolution Copper Mining.

Besich family to serve as Apache Leap grand marshals

Paul and Katie Besich

The Besich Family has been selected as the Grand Marshals for the Apache Leap mining festival. The family history in the area began in the early 1900's when Paul Besich immigrated to America eventually settling with his wife Katie in Superior. They raised eight children who all graduated from Superior High School. The family had entrepreneurial roots throughout the Copper Corridor communities of Globe, Miami and Superior.

Their son Nick was well known in the community for his community service as Constable, School Board member, business owner, and leader in the Fire Department. To date three generations of the Besich family have served on the Superior School Board. Two generations have served on the Superior Town Council.

In the 1980's the Besich family donated their land on a Main Street to create a park which is known as Besich Park today.

In choosing the family, the Superior Chamber wanted to recognize a family who made impacts throughout the region.

Paul Besich

Paul Besich grew up in Komolac, a village on the outskirts of Dubrovnik in Croatia. He was born August 15, 1881.

Paul immigrated to America in 1906. He worked in a gold mine in Lead, South Dakota, and then moved to Globe, Arizona where he worked at the Old Dominion Mine and saved money to send for Katie. Two weeks after she arrived, the traveling priest came to Globe and she and Paul were married at the home of Hattie Trojanovich. Soon after their marriage, Paul quit the mines and opened the Morning Star Saloon in Globe.

In 1919 he operated the Palace Cafe in the Coleman Building in Superior. His business partners were Phil Radovich, Nick Sarkovich and Charlie Wiggand. Paul left his wife and children in Miami until he could move them to Superior. He would walk to Iron's Ranch at Sutton's Summit where he could pick up a horse and buggy for transportation along the Bellamy Trail to Miami to visit his family. The trail is still partially visible today.

In 1920, Paul moved his family to Superior by way of Christmas, Winkelman and Ray in an open, seven passenger touring car with jump seats over a road that was scarcely more than a wagon trail. Family stories say that they departed Miami at 9:30 in the morning and arrived in Superior at 5:30 that evening. Paul built a home on Heiner Drive that still stands today along with the the garage, an apartment, and the chicken coop.

He sold his interest in the Palace Cafe in the early 1920s and later opened the Modern Cafe with John Cagali and John Linov as partners. The family operated the Cafe until 1945. In addition to the restaurant business, Paul

Regional leaders meet with Rio Tinto global executives

By Mila Besich-Lira
Copper Area News

Leaders from throughout the Copper Corridor met with Rio Tinto Global Leader Sam Walsh and Jean-Sebastian Jacques, Rio Tinto Chief Executive of Copper and Coal. The local leaders were hosted at Resolution Copper east plant operations. The meeting consisted of brief remarks by Walsh and Jacques followed by a question and answer session.

This was the first time that Sam Walsh had visited the project. Earlier in the day they took arial tours of the region and they had a barbecue with local contractors and staff at the mine.

Much of the discussion during the meeting focussed on the needs of the region including education and infrastructure needs to be able to support the growing mine and work force. The supporters in the room also encouraged the executives to continue their investment in the Resolution Copper project.

Walsh stressed Rio Tinto's global commitment to health and safety along with social performance. He explained that they want to work with the local communities.

Leaders in attendance included representatives from the Gila County Board of Supervisors, Pinal County Board of Supervisors, Town of Kearny, Town of Miami, City of Globe, White Mountain Apache Tribal council members along with former San Carlos Apache tribal council members, the Superior Chamber of Commerce and representatives from the Bullion Plaza Cultural Center in Miami.

The meeting lasted about an hour, just as the question and answer period was about to end, former San Carlos Apache Tribal Council Chairwoman Kathy Kitcheyan presented an authentic hand woven Apache basket, wove by one of the most talented basket weavers from the San Carlos Apache Tribe.

and Katie owned several rental properties. He was also a charter member of the Superior Rotary Club which is currently Superior's oldest service club.

Paul died May 23, 1933.

Katica Buslje

Katica "Katie" Buslje was born June 3, 1884 in Dubrovnik, Croatia. She sailed to America in 1908 on a ship called the Laura. Traveling steerage, she said people were crammed in tight as sardines in a can with poor ventilation and no plumbing. She arrived at Ellis Island early in 1909, then traveled by stagecoach from Bowie, AZ to Globe.

Paul and Katie had four children while living in Miami: Annie, Sylvia, Nellie and Katherine. After moving to Superior, they had four more: Andrew, Nick, Thomas and Pauline. All eight children graduated from Superior High School.

Katie died August 5, 1975.

Andrew "Tiger" Besich was the last surviving child of the Paul and Katie; just about everyone in Superior knew him. He always had a story to tell and could remember many historical facts about the community. He passed away in 2013.

Paul and Katie have 20 grandchildren and numerous great- and great-great-grandchildren, many of whom still reside in Arizona.

The late Steven L. Besich was the son of Nick and Betty Besich. He served as the County Manager for Gila County for almost 20 years. He was Katie and Paul's grandson. Steve's daughter, Mila Besich-Lira and her two children Jose and Ashley reside in Superior. The majority of Paul and Katie's grandchildren and great-grandchildren still live in Arizona, but as the family grew the roots have managed to extend to other states including California, Nevada, Minnesota, Texas and Washington.

The extended family remains very close and each spring, the descendants of Paul and Katie gather to clean the Croatian Lodges Cemetery in Central Heights in Gila County as an annual family reunion.

Editor's Note: Many thanks to Bullion Plaza for assistance on the history of the Besich family.

Kathy Kitcheyan, left, presents an authentic hand woven Apache basket to Rio Tinto Global Leader Sam Walsh.

Panthers lose to Combs in Padilla Tournament winner's bracket

By Andrew Luberdia
Superior Sun

After going 3 – 1 to finish first in their pool during last week's Joe S. Padilla Tournament, the Panthers took on then undefeated Combs in the first round of the winner's bracket at Florence High School last Saturday. The Coyotes extended their season-opening winning streak with an 8 – 1 victory over the Panthers in game that ended in the fourth inning due to the tournament's 90-minute time limit.

The Coyotes scored two runs in the first off Panthers' starter Austin Navarrette, who was one of three pitchers used in the game by head coach Manuel Ortega. Jesse Lopez and Steven Denogean were the other pitchers who made pitching appearances for the Panthers.

The Panthers scored their lone run in the second inning, using hits by Denogean, Jesse Lopez, and an RBI-single from Andrew Lopez to score the run.

"I know our defense is solid," Panthers' sophomore Nicolaus Cruz said after the game about his team's performance. "What we really need to work on right now is our hitting."

"In the beginning of the season we came out stroking and all of sudden we just slumped," he continued. "But if there is any time to slump it's in a (preseason) tournament."

Combs scored a run in the third and five more in the fourth before the game was called due to the time limit restriction.

Despite the loss, the Panthers showed well in the tournament, which featured teams mostly in Division III, one higher than Superior. Their losses came against Bisbee and Combs, both state playoff teams a year ago.

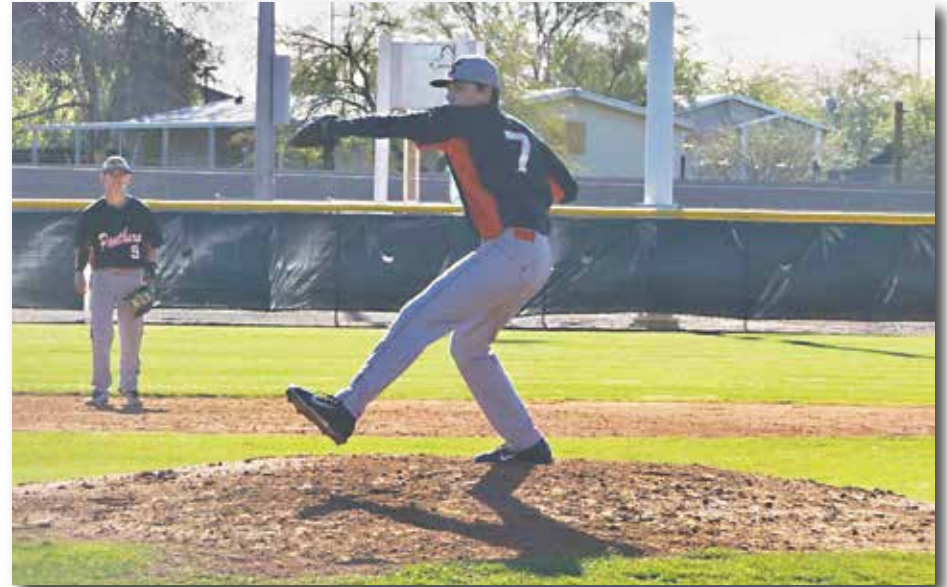

The Panthers know the experience of playing teams in a division higher will benefit them down the road.

"Definitely," Cruz responded in agreement. "We showed we can bang with anyone and it gives us some respect."

Cruz, who showed he's ready for the season after pitching week in the 4 – 3 loss earlier in the week against Bisbee, figures to be one of the top players in the division this season.

The Panthers will play at Duncan on Mar. 12 (3:30 p.m.) before a one-week break in their schedule.
