Tragic crash takes Hayden officer's life

Hayden Police Department lost one of their own Saturday afternoon as he was driving into work for his assigned shift.

Officer Michael Haddad, 49, was on his way to work with Hayden Police Department Saturday afternoon, around 3:30 p.m., when he and his motorcycle collided with another vehicle on State Route 177 near Milepost 158, just outside of Superior. Officer Haddad was wearing a safety helmet but succumbed to his injuries at the scene. The occupants in the pickup truck that collided with Haddad were not injured.

State Route 177 was closed while detectives with the Arizona Department of Public Safety Vehicle Crimes Unit

(VCU) conducted an investigation of the collision. VCU investigates vehicle related collisions when serious criminal charges could stem from the collision, the dynamics of the collision require a higher level of accident reconstruction expertise, or are officer related and the collision resulted in serious physical injury or death. This collision is still under investigation and no criminal charges are anticipated at this time.

Officer Haddad was a 22-year law enforcement veteran who had retired from Buckeye Police Department and had been working for Hayden Police Department for two years. Officer Haddad is survived by his wife and daughter.

US 60 Silver King and Superior Streets project starting, continuing improvements along the highway

The Arizona Department of Transportation has been working for more than 40 years to improve US 60 between Interstate 10 in Tempe and Superior. The most recent project, completed in 2008, extended the divided highway from Florence Junction through Gonzales Pass to Queen Creek, near the Boyce Thompson Arboretum.

This $32.8 million project will continue the improvement of US 60 from Queen Creek through Superior to the junction of State Route 177. The divided highway will be extended to the western boundary of Superior at approximately Silver King Road, and the roadway will be improved through Superior.

Beginning the week of March 14, crews will be increasing their activities along US 60 at Superior in preparation for the construction project.

Work will start on the west side of the project by the Boyce Thompson Arboretum where crews will start constructing the new two-lane divided highway to match the current divided highway. The new divided highway will be constructed north of the current highway and will tie back into the current highway close to the Superior airport.

ADOT works to inform the public about planned highway restrictions, but there is a possibility that unscheduled closures or restrictions may occur. Weather can also affect a project schedule.

For more information about this project, please call Julian Avila at 602-320-7263, or email javila@azdot.gov

Superior Police may get military-grade vehicles as Superior Council okays pact with Apache Junction; vandalism problem sours town on ADOT rest stop

By James J. Hodl
Superior Sun

Issues ranging from the possible acquisition of military-grade vehicles for use by the Superior Police and Fire Departments to deciding the fate of the U.S. Highway 60 Rest Stop were tackled by the Town Council during a busy meeting on March 10.

Council members unanimously approved an Intergovernmental Agreement negotiated with Apache Junction that would enable Superior to acquire free of charge used police vehicles from that town.

Police Chief David Neuss spoke in favor of the agreement, noting that he had his eye on an armored Bearcat vehicle and a Humvee. The Bearcat, he said, would have numerous uses by the Superior Police Department in downed officer situations and riot control, as well as transporting evidence for robbery and drug cases. The Humvee, Neuss added, would help Superior fulfill its agreement with Resolution Copper to provide first responder services to the firm's mining locations outside Superior as the vehicle can maneuver in mountainous terrain better than other equipment used by the town's police and fire departments.

Councilman Michael Alonzo was initially skeptical, wondering if the maintenance costs of such vehicles might outweigh whatever value they may have in the few instances when they might be required. To avoid financial pitfalls he suggested that the Town Council approve each vehicle before acquisition.

Chief Neuss countered that the vehicles are free and that if they are not used or cost too much to use, Superior could sell them for cash through firms like Sierra Auction. Fire Chief Todd Pryor added that the Humvee would find use with the Superior Fire Department until the town can afford to acquire a more custom vehicle for fighting fires in nearby mountains.

Alonzo subsequently voted for approval of the agreement.

Council members, however, voted to table an Action on whether to continue for five additional years an agreement with the Arizona Department of Transportation (ADOT) to maintain the U.S. Highway 60 Rest Stop now that the original 20-year agreement is rolling to a close this summer. The Rest Stop was funded by ADOT grants but has proven to be a magnet for vandals.

"When vandals aren't plugging toilets with paper causing them to overflow, they are smashing the porcelain fixtures," Councilman Alonzo complained. "Once when they smashed the toilet and sink, water ran all weekend causing $1,900 in damages."

But Council Member Mila Besich-Lira warned of being too hasty to close the rest stop down.

"Superior is becoming a tourist destination, and we'll need some public rest rooms to accommodate them," Besich-Lira said. "Maybe we should look at ways to counter the vandals like shortening the hours the rest stop is open."

The Highway 60 Rest Stop is currently open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Among other ideas to vandal-proof the rest stop was to switch to all-metal fixtures or requiring a token given out by local businesses to gain entry. The latter idea was nixed as other places where the token was required suffered ripped-off doors. Councilman John Tameron added that replacing the rest stop with portable toilets wouldn't work either because vandals would tip them over.

Todd Pryor, in his capacity of acting town manager, noted that ADOT would not object to Superior cancelling the agreement rather than extending it by five years and would absorb all the repercussions. However since the Council has until July, members voted to table the proposal in order to conduct a study on how to retain the rest stop without the problems before deciding on the extension.

In other Council business, Members voted to apply for a 2016 Homeland Security Grant to replace the generator at Superior's waste water treatment plant. The 1977 vintage generator had had maintenance issues in recent years and had failed to activate during the last four power outages.

The Council also approved changing the eligible signers for the town's Bank of the West account. Two signers are now required to do transactions on the account since the January meeting, and Mayor Jayme Valenzuela said that because his work hours with the Pinal County Sheriff's Office have been changed he can no longer be available days to co-sign the account. To assure that two approved signers are available when needed, Valenzuela was replaced by Councilman Stephen Estatico.

A request from ASARCO Mining for a letter of support for the firm's proposed new tailings facility along the Ripsey Wash in northeastern Pinal County was tabled by Council Members for additional study. According to Duane Yantorno, environmental manager at ASARCO, the new facility would be located west of Kearny between

Copper Corridor Economic Development Coalition offers second leadership academy

For some time, Mila Besich-Lira had heard wonderful feedback about the Hispanic Leadership Institute program offered by Valle del Sol in Phoenix.

Although Besich-Lira, who lives in Superior, was interested in attending the 10-week leadership institute, which helps individuals to develop their leadership skills in order to take a more active role in their community, she said the idea of driving once a week to the Valley or even Coolidge was a deterrent.

Thanks to the launch of the Hispanic Leadership Institute-Copper Corridor in 2015, Besich-Lira and other people who live in the region were able to take part in the program, whose mission is to promote individual development for increased participation in leadership roles at both the local level and beyond. Mila graduated from HLI-Copper Corridor last spring. "There is a distinct difference between leadership development in urban and rural settings, so it was great to get this program in this area," she said.

Although she enjoyed all aspects of the program, Besich-Lira said the section on boards and commissions was an outstanding refresher course, and the discussions about the importance of self-care were especially helpful. "Taking enough time for downtime, prioritizing our time and preserving our energy really hit home for me," she said.

David Herrera of Kearny also attended the inaugural HLI-Copper Corridor program. Although he had been politically active for years, Herrera said he had fallen away from politics. Attending the leadership institute inspired him to become more involved in his local community, as well as in Superior, where he owns property.

"HLI was a great way to learn about issues that other people have, and it gave me the chance to meet like-minded people," he said.

For Mike Montiel, of Superior, attending HLI-Copper Corridor has not only helped inspire him to be more involved in his local community, the program also gave him the confidence to do so. "It is essential for residents of rural communities to have dialogues with each other; we are sometimes separated by geological features like lakes and mountains, but if we can pool our knowledge we can really make a difference," he said.

"Now I have the confidence to speak about issues intelligently and I have ideas on how to fix them and the confidence to make the changes."

In addition to helping to enhance his leadership skills, Montiel said another major benefit of the course was the close relationships he formed with the other people who attended.

"There are a lot of good people in small towns but we don't always have time to get to know them. HLI was really an eye-opening experience that helped me learn what is going on in other communities."

Herrera also enjoyed getting to know the other attendees. "I personally made some very good friends and bonded with the other people. We have all made a commitment to keep in touch," he said.

Partners for HLI-Copper Corridor are the Copper Corridor Economic Development Coalition, Central Arizona College, and Valle del Sol.

"HLI-Copper Corridor trains individuals, fosters civic engagement, and assists participants to realize their fullest potential as community leaders," said Carlos Galindo-Elvira, Chief Development Officer for Valle del Sol. "The practical information and hands-on experiences from HLI has been beneficial to me in being an active change maker and advocate." Carlos graduated from the program in 2000 and formerly served as Mayor of Hayden.

Recruitment for HLI-Copper Corridor 2016 is underway with a deadline on March 21 to apply online at valledelsol.com/hlicoppercorridor. HLI-Copper Corridor is a competitive application process open to individuals of all diverse backgrounds. The cost of tuition for HLI-Copper Corridor is $200. Sessions will begin on March 29.

SUPERIOR COUNCIL MEETING

Riverside and Kelvin on Ripsey Wash near the Florence-Kelvin Highway. It is needed because the current tailings facility is nearly at capacity with mining debris. The new facility will handle additional debris through the next 50 years, he said.

The Council opted to table the request until April 14 to determine what effect the tailings facility will have on the local environment before drafting any support letter.

Preliminary results of an audit of Superior government finances by Hinton Burdick PLLC was presented in a power-point presentation by Tom Bingham of the Colby & Powell accounting firm. According to the report, Superior government's methods for managing its financials ranged from materially weak to deficient in 2010. By 2012 it was more than $3 million in debt from borrowing from HURF (Highway User Revenue Fund) intended for road repairs and improvements. The report also found that in 2013, an increase in revenues from the Utility Fund slightly decreased what was owed to HURF.

Although statistics for subsequent years were not yet available, Mayor Valenzuela credited the apparent improvement in 2013 to the "hard work" of former Town Manager Margaret Gaston and former Acting Financial Director David Romano. Both resigned in January after the discovery that town financial accounting was so lax that personal withdrawals by Valenzuela from the town debit card went undetected until November 2015. Those withdrawals are now being investigated to determine if criminal charges are warranted.

Having the Oak Flats campground in the Tonto

National Forest declared a historic district by the Federal Keeper of the Record on March 4 will not halt the development of the area for copper mining, said Diego Ortega, general manager of community social performance with Resolution Copper. During his special presentation to the Council, he said the declaration will only add an additional step Resolution must take to get approval to start mining copper on the property.

The company may have to alter placement of facilities to not disturb sensitive sites as a result, but Resolution can still mine there unless the land swap approved by Congress in December 2014 is overturned, Ortega said.

The purpose of Ortega's presentation was to announce that Resolution Copper would soon begin seeking a federal permit to launch mining operations at Oak Flats as required under the National Environmental Policy Act. The company must submit a mining operational plan showing how such operations would affect federal lands in an Environmental Impact Statement. Along the process, public comments will be sought, and Ortega invited Superior residents to submit their suggestions and concerns when the time comes.
