#RedforEd movement comes to Oracle, San Manuel: this is what democracy looks like

By John Hernandez
San Manuel Miner

Chanting slogans including “overworked – underpaid”, “Red for Ed.” “something has got to change”, and “This is what Democracy looks like”, Mountain Vista teachers, staff, parents, students, children and supporters held a short rally and then marched to Mt. Vista School as a show of support for teachers in Arizona. Many of them were wearing red and carrying protest signs. The #RedforEd movement is asking for better pay for teachers and more money for education.

The rally and Walk-In began across the street from the General Dollar store at the Mt. Vista School bus depot off of American Avenue. This is off of American Avenue near the entrance to Oracle. Many cars went by and honked and waved to show support.

Superintendent Dennis Blauser was seen observing the rally and walk-in and when asked about the movement, he said, “I support the teachers 100 percent.”

Teachers spoke to a good crowd of supporters about their concerns and demands. The demands include: a 20 percent salary increase, competitive pay, restore funding to 2008 levels, and no new tax cuts until per pupil funding reaches national average.

Mammoth-San Manuel teachers also staged a walk-in Wednesday. They met at the marquis in front of the district office, all sporting red shirts. They’ve asked parents and community members to show their support for the movement by wearing red on Wednesdays for the next month.

The state-wide walk-ins and the #RedforEd movement has caught the attention of Governor Ducey who appears to now be making some concessions in this election year. Whether this is just posturing or he intends to do something to improve the education situation in Arizona remains to be seen. It is clear that education will be a talking point in the upcoming elections and the #RedforEd movement will play a part in them.

Teachers, parents and students stage a ‘walk-in’ in Oracle last week as part of the #RedforEd movement.

recent study published by a team of university researchers in the journal PLOS ONE in December.

According to the study, parts of Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada are likely to see increases of five or more times the current levels of area burned each year by 2038. Other areas studied ranged from greater than two times area burned and small increases, to even small decreases in some parts of the Arctic.

"It's a wake-up call to be ready," said Don Falk, an associate professor in the University of Arizona's School of Natural Resources and the Environment and an author of the study. "The fire phenomenon is not going to go away, it's going to get bigger."

The researchers compared 34 years of data on seasonal temperature, rainfall and snowpack with acreage burned each year in western North America to understand how climate affected the area burned in the past. They then built a statistical model using future climate projections to predict how area burned each year is likely to change between now and 2038.

"The first premise we took is that we're not going to get a single equation that answers the seasonal response to fire," Falk said. To account for this, the researchers divided the study area into 1,500 grid cells and studied each area separately. "If you look at the projections, we see some areas that are very different."

The huge variation in different areas is a result of the length and severity of the fire season and the availability and flammability of fuels. These are both affected by many

Big inning propels Lobos past Miners

By Andrew Luberda
Copper Area News

The Hayden baseball team used a five-run fifth inning to defeat 2A San Manuel on the road last Tuesday, Apr. 10, 8 – 2.

The Lobos, who are No. 7 in the 1A rankings, pounded out 10 hits, including two each by Mychal Mariscal, Vincente Gallego and Mario Mariscal. Three of the Lobos' 10 hits were extra-base hits – a triple by Gallego and doubles by Mario Mariscal and Robert Bohrn.

Lobos' starting pitcher Mario Mariscal picked up the win, going six and-a-third innings and allowing a run on three hits with eight strikeouts and five walks. Bohrn allowed a run on a hit in relief.

San Manuel junior Louis Chavez had two of the Miners' three hits in the game in addition to an RBI. Senior Alejandro Camacho doubled for their only other hit.

Four San Manuel pitchers were the victims of some poor defense behind them. Numerous errors, according to Miners' head coach Freddy Burnham, aided the Lobos' five-run inning.

Freshman AJ Castillo took the loss, throwing three innings and allowing three runs – two earned – on two hits with three strikeouts and four walks. Sophomore Ceazar Guerrero surrendered only a hit while fanning three Lobos' hitter in two innings of relief.

San Manuel up next: Apr. 20 vs. San Miguel and Apr. 23 at Miami. Both games are scheduled for 4 p.m.

Hayden up next: Apr. 19 vs. Patagonia, Apr. 20 vs. Ft. Thomas and Apr. 23 vs. Baboquivari. All games are scheduled for 4 p.m.

Harris named Grand Marshal of 33rd Annual Oracle Oaks Festival

By John Hernandez
San Manuel Miner

The 33rd Annual Oracle Oaks Festival will be held on Saturday, April 21, 2018. This year's Grand Marshal is John Harris. John is known for his sense of humor and for helping others in town.

John was born in Illinois and is 87 years old. He bragged that he rode his motorcycle until he was 83.

John spent four years in the Navy serving in the Aleutian Islands and Korea and is a Veteran of the Korean War. He spent a few years as a policeman in Missouri before becoming a truck driver and hauling goods across the United States and Canada.

He came to Oracle in 1999 and has lived here since then. When asked how he ended up in Oracle, he jokingly replied, "I really don't know, I ran out of gas, I think."

John was interviewed at one of his favorite "hangouts" the barber shop. He also likes to hang out at Casa Rivera's Restaurant. John said he does not know why he was picked as Grand Marshal.

"I have the dullest history of anybody in the world," he said. "I haven't done anything but harass the natives since I been here."

John is a Mason and volunteers at the Community Center and all his pals at the barbershop says he does a lot for others. Congratulations John!

Annual Oracle Spring Run Car Show

The Oracle Historical Society's annual fundraiser, the Spring Run Car Show, will be held Saturday, April 21, 2018. This is the 32nd year of the event, which takes place during the Oracle Oaks Festival.

The Spring Run is open to all cars, motorcycles and trucks, and participants must pre-register or come to the registration area on the morning of the event. Generous businesses and individuals donate funds to cover Spring Run t-shirt printing and other expenses. The car parade runs through Oracle at 9:30 a.m. and ends at the Pinal County Court House Park where trophies are awarded at 2:30 p.m.

OHS also sponsors a food booth that is open during the entire event, serving green chile, bean or combo burros, BBQ sandwiches and drinks. All proceeds from the Spring Run and food booth benefit the Oracle Historical Society.

The parade and awards ceremony are free to the public, so plan to come see the display of classic, exotic and new vehicles on April 22. If you would like to enter your vehicle in the car show, entry forms are available at CarQuest in Oracle, Dale's Auto Body in San Manuel, or call 520-896-9609 (leave a message for Margaret). You can also go online to oraclehistoricalsociety.org.

Vehicles sparkled at the 2017 Oracle

The 31st Annual Oracle Spring Run Car Show, which took place during the 2017 Oracle Oaks Festival, followed the ever-popular time-honored formula of a car show, parade, swap meet, craft fair and book sale. The car parade ran through Oracle, starting at 9:30 a.m., ending at the Pinal County Courthouse Park where owners set up their cars, popped their hoods and waited for the accolades to pour in. The vehicles sparkled in the glorious April Oracle sunshine, ready to be judged and trophies to be awarded. With more than 158 beauties to choose from, judges must have found these decisions difficult.

And last year's winners are:

- Best Engine Paul Harrison from Green Valley, 1932 Ford coupe

Best of Show Car: William Spagnola from AZ City, 1939 Chevy Town Sedan

Best of Show Truck: Terry White from Tucson, 1957 GMC Suburban

WILDLAND FIRES

complex and localized seasonal climate factors, Falk said.

Seasonal temperatures and rainfall affect plant growth and moisture levels, which influence how likely it is that an area will burn. More rainfall usually means more plant growth, but also that plants are less dry and therefore less flammable. "There's kind of a balance between the two," Falk said.

As the climate warms and dries, fire seasons are likely to start earlier and end later. "There are a lot of indications that fire season is getting longer everywhere," Falk said.

Falk noted that more area burned doesn't necessarily mean more severe wildfires in terms of impacts to humans and ecosystems.

Falk and the research team chose not to predict beyond 2038 because researchers aren't confident they can accurately forecast climate in the latter half of this century.

"It's not just going to be climate alone, but climate times fire times insect outbreaks and other things," Falk said. "There's a good chance that a lot of the landscape by the end of the century will look very different. It could be a different biome."

Fire prevention in Arizona: a statewide response

Arizona Gov. Doug Ducey announced in February that he will double the amount of money he asks the Arizona State Legislature for fire prevention. It will increase from $1 million to $2 million for fiscal year 2019.

"After experiencing an unusually dry winter, we need to commit to giving the Department of Forestry and Fire Management the tools they need to prevent and battle these catastrophic fires," Ducey said in a press release.

Karl Gehrke, a planning specialist with the department, said that focusing on fire-prevention activities, like tree thinning and prescribed burning, will be key as fire conditions worsen across the state in the coming years and decades.

According to Gehrke, spending on fire prevention can save huge sums of money in the long run. Fighting fires is much costlier than preventing them. Gehrke said that the 2017 Goodwin fire in Prescott cost about $20 million to fight, but he thinks it could've been avoided with $2 million dollars in prevention work.

"We need to be doing that work now regardless of the cost," Gehrke said. "The cost down the road will be 10 to 20 times more."

Ducey's request for a doubling of fire prevention funds still needs to be passed by the state legislature. The money, if awarded, wouldn't come in until the beginning of the next fiscal year in July, which is usually after the worst of Arizona's fire season. The money would be used for fire prevention in the 2019 fire season.

As for the 2018 season, Gehrke says that low precipitation this winter, and winds that prevented some planned prescribed burns are "putting us further behind than we would like to be." He's optimistic, though, and thinks that the department will be prepared for this fire season because it has agreements with almost all of the fire departments across the state. Arizona's fire season usually comes earlier than in other states, also, meaning that fire crews from other states can be called in to help.

"When there's a fire it's pretty much all hands on deck," Gehrke said.

Falk said that increases in spring and summer temperatures, and decreases in spring precipitation, are likely to have the biggest impact on annual area burned in Arizona.

More fire fighting and prevention, or better land-use planning?

Although fire fighting and prevention are important, Falk says that climate change could alter landscapes and increase annual area burned so much that traditional methods of fire prevention and suppression might not cut it. He'd like to see more emphasis on land-use planning that avoids building in areas that are likely to burn.

"You could do fuel treatments, you could have suppression activities, that's all great, but climate could override all of those things," Falk said. "... At a certain point, there needs to be a serious discussion about where we put these people's lives and infrastructure in relation to this fairly inevitable occurrence."
