Heat Relief Network coming to Pinal County

With triple-digit temperatures upon us, heat poses the greatest health risk to the homebound elderly and those with outdoor lifestyles or occupations, according to Pinal County health statistics.

“The Heat Relief Network is a long term, regional approach that will foster public/private partnerships in creating watering holes in the desert” said Mannie Bowler, executive director for the United Way of Pinal County.

Pinal County Manager Greg Stanley stated, “I am pleased to have Pinal County join this effort to help our residents battle the effects of our hot summers. It’s a real-time tool that the community can use to locate water collection sites and refuge centers when it is needed.”

The Central Arizona Governments team also joined this effort. “We believe that it is very important for people in need to be able to find the closest heat relief location. Our goal is to enable those in need of relief from the heat to acquire water and a cool place to recuperate. Through this effort we believe lives could be saved!” shared Central Arizona Governments.

Bowler added, “Each organization that signs up to participate in the water collection/distribution and cooling station system, will provide respite for the weary traveler.”

The weary traveler could be a family whose water was disconnected, someone that is homeless and can’t carry enough water with them or an individual stranded on the side of the road or in the desert.

According to the Pinal County Health Department study on heat-related illnesses, in 2017, there were six deaths in Pinal County due to heat-related illnesses. Of the nearly 190 cases of emergency room treatment of heat-related illness, 71 percent were men aged 19-49 and those over 65 had an increased chance of dying due to heat-related complications.

The elderly were being impacted because they were afraid to turn on their air conditioners out of fear that their bills were going to outgrow their pocketbook, Bowler said.

In the desert water equates life.

Last summer, the Genesis Project in Apache Junction distributed 10 cases of water per day, the Casa Grande Salvation Army gave out more than 7,500 water bottles last year to clients in need and the soup kitchen operated by Seeds of Hope and the St. Vincent de Paul also distributed thousands to their clients.

The food banks in the area also distribute water with food boxes to those who need them. Without the community donations of

Pinal County Sheriff's Office issues sex offender notification

The Pinal County Sheriff's Office has issued a level two sex offender notification for the Oracle area.

Carlos Mendoza Sanchez, 70, has registered his address with the Pinal County Sheriff's Office. He will be living in the 1000 block of N. John Adams St. in Oracle. He is described as a Hispanic male who is 5'6", 203 pounds with brown eyes and brown hair. He was convicted in 1987 of child molestation.

The Pinal County Sheriff's Office is releasing the above information pursuant to A.R.S. 13-3825, the Community Notification on Sex Offender Law. Notification must be made when certain sex offenders are released from the Arizona State Prison, accepted under an interstate compact or released from the county jail back into the community. Offenders are categorized into three levels: Level One (low risk to the community), Level Two (intermediate risk to the community), and Level Three (high risk to the community).

The individual who appears on this notification has been convicted of a sex offense, which allows for community notification. They are not wanted by the Pinal County Sheriff's Office at this time.

This notification is not intended to increase fear; rather it is our belief that an informed community is a safer community. The Pinal County Sheriff's Office has no legal authority to direct where a sex offender may or may not live. Unless court ordered restrictions exist, this offender is constitutionally free to live wherever he chooses. Citizen abuse of this information to threaten, intimidate, or harass sex offenders will not be tolerated. Sex offenders have always lived in our communities; but because of Megan's Law, law enforcement is now able to share this information with you.

Police caution that any use of this information to threaten, intimidate, harass or create an act against another person will result in prosecution.

Teachers at the Capitol

It was a wonder to behold. More than 50,000 teachers and educational supporters came together to make Arizona's educational needs known. On the capitol grounds, speeches were made and 200 hundred music teachers formed a band and played stirring music. RedForEd made its presence known and the legislature responded (albeit reluctantly) and passed the most significant education bill in Arizona's recent history.

The bill is actually a bit mixed, a real change of direction with dependence on Arizona's future economic growth and the largesse of future legislatures. The purported 20 percent growth over five years includes only one percent for the first year and, after the second year, only promises if the money is available. Still, I salute the legislature for finally responding not only to the teachers but to the desires of the citizens of Arizona.

This is the first educational victory for Arizona since Arizona was a rural state. Rural state? Yes, Arizona was mostly rural until the 70s. In 1950, Phoenix had only 106,618 people. The hitching posts for horses in tiny Scottsdale were real.

Arizona was known for its good schools, largely owing to the influence of one man, Grady Gammage. Born in 1892, Gammage moved to Arizona as a child because of his tuberculosis. He enrolled in the University of Arizona in Tucson and began graduate studies in 1916. Right out of college, he became superintendent of public schools in Winslow, Arizona. Two of the teachers he hired were the most respected teachers whom I had in the 1960s, when I went to high school there. In 1925, Gammage went to Northern Arizona State Teachers College (now NAU) in Flagstaff as vice-president, becoming president but a year later. He led the college into an era of high achievement for both students and faculty. In 1928 the school received recognition as a Class A four-year institution and, in 1930, it was the first school in the whole Southwest to receive full accreditation.

Pinal County gives Oracle heli-pad a fresh coat of paint

By John Hernandez
San Manuel Miner

The emergency landing area for the helicopter transport in Oracle has been repainted. The Oracle Briggs Heli-Spot located by the county courthouse and the county maintenance area was in need of a repainting job as the red cross landing pad was worn and faded. The Heli-Spot was constructed in 2006.

Dale Suter, on behalf of the Oracle Fire Department approached District 1 Supervisor, Pete Rios, with the hope that the county would be willing to repaint the pad.

“The pad,” Suter explained, “is used for medical transport for Oracle and the tri-city area and there might be a safety issue with the flaking paint and helicopter activities.”

Suter, Chairman of the Oracle Fire Board showed Mr. Rios photographs of the need to repaint the worn faded paint job on the pad. Supervisor Rios agreed that there was a safety need to repaint the Heli-pad.

Supervisor Rios then contacted Pinal County officials, who made sure that the repainting job was completed. The Oracle Fire Department would like to thank Pinal County for the great job that they did.

HEAT RELIEF

water, these agencies would have had to dip into their limited budgets to purchase this lifesaving drink.

“Wouldn’t it be great if WE, as a community, could take care of the water?” challenged Bowler.

Don’t become a statistic! Don’t be fooled by the temperature. Avoid heat illness by making sure you’re properly hydrated. Arizona officials recommend drinking at least two liters (about 68 ounces) of water a day — and one to two liters of water an hour if you’re outdoors. They even recommend drinking when you’re not thirsty. Thirst is your body’s way of telling you you’re already mildly dehydrated. Can you be a hero and save someone else?

To sign up as a participating community partner please register your location on the map at unitedwayofpc.org/heatrelief. The community will be able to use this real-time tool to identify locations as soon as agencies have registered.

A special thank you to my Uncle and Aunts Richard and Laly Bracamonte, Rex and Angie Chavez, Dave and Lupita Bracamonte, and all of my cousins and their spouses for the help they gave me with luncheon planning, food, and thoughtful gifts.

Thank you as well to Father George Kunnel, the women and men of the Infant Jesus of Prague Catholic Church for preparing the luncheon and Dr. James (Jimmy) Celis for the beautiful eulogy. I am eternally grateful for your love and kindness.

ALONG THE GILA

Then came the crash and the Depression. Gammage inserted himself personally into Arizona's educational needs. He worked closely with the small rural schools, recruiting students for the college and helping them secure positions after graduation. When students could not come up with tuition money, Gammage helped them by accepting barter. Dairy cows, corn, and potatoes financed many of the students.

The result was a boost in education in Arizona, even during the worst of the Depression. The small towns rallied around their teachers, and they became important and respected people. The whole of Arizona became deeply indebted to the little college in Flagstaff.

In 1933, Gammage became president of Arizona State College at Tempe (later ASU). He anticipated Arizona's education needs and, during World War II, helped Senator Ernest MacFarland in developing the GI bill, which assisted returning veterans and contributed to the educational boom of the 1950s.

Arizona schools were at their height. Complicated economic and social factors, including population growth and tax policies pleasing to corporations, brought different interests into government. Money was still spent on schools, but mostly for buildings in the metropolitan areas. The rural areas were hit the hardest, for funding still comes largely from property taxes, the most inequitable way to develop a level playing field for schools.

Yes, I know this column is long and preachy. I owe large thanks to Arizona, which provided my elementary, high school and university education. Right now I owe large thanks to the teachers, staff, school boards and administrators of Arizona, who have chosen to make local public education a priority once again. Thank you too, legislators, for beginning to overcome your reluctance. There is a flush of victory, but we still have to climb our way back from the bottom.
