The real truth about Oak Flat

It was with great interest that my son—who just graduated from Arizona State University – showed me a recent story regarding the controversy around Oak Flat, near the small mining town of Superior, Arizona. As a San Carlos tribal member and Apache historian, I was surprised by some of the misinformation that was contained within the op-ed. My book, “The History of the San Carlos Apache,” which was published by the San Carlos Apache Historic and Cultural Preservation Office in 1997 offers a much different perspective than Ms. Millet. There has not been a long history of ceremonial or cultural activities such as Sunrise or Holy Ground ceremonies taking place at Oak Flat.

From my personal perspective, the thought of having such a ceremony at Oak Flat, far from the support of relatives, clan members and friends in the San Carlos tribal area is almost unthinkable. My uncle, who lived in Superior, would regularly attend most tribal ceremonies. He would travel to the San Carlos Apache reservation or the White Mountain Apache reservation. I, myself, attended my first tribal Sunrise ceremony at Cibecue, Arizona in the White Mountains – the idea of having a sunrise ceremony at Oak Flat was never considered. Such an event requires the support of family, relatives and friends plus the input of the medicine man or spiritual person who performs the complex ceremony. He has much to say about the site and choosing the right place is important because the dance often becomes a community event. Evidently the person who wrote the op-ed didn't have much knowledge on what the ceremony involves in commitment, logistics and preparation.

In 1970 the Magma Copper Company built a mine shaft on Oak Flat that you can see from the passing highway. At that time no member of the San Carlos Apache Tribe said anything about it being a sacred site. I know because I was living in Superior at the time. Some tribal people from San Carlos even talked about getting employment with the mine. There were no protests, no publicity of any kind. Why not? If this area was sacred, wouldn't opposition arise many years before today? There was never any statement made by tribal members or tribal leadership. It wasn't until recent years that the site of Oak Flat was called sacred in any kind of way. All one has to do is examine the records to see if the word sacred was ever used for the site.

However, the real truth about speaking out with a different opinion on Oak Flat that is contrary to the tribal government's stance is fear. People working for the tribe will often say (to me and others) that if they go against what the tribal council supports they will be fired. Does it not bother anyone that rarely do we hear a voice of someone on the street who doesn't support tribal government's view on Oak Flat? If people have a different opinion on a subject they should not have to be called traitors or be accused of being against their own people.

Before making any kind of judgment on a subject of importance all the facts should be studied and examined to the utmost for the good of all concerned.

Rattlesnake assault in Oracle: suspect tried to get rattlesnake to bite victim

Pinal County Sheriff's Deputies say an Oracle man used a rattlesnake in an assault. The deputies were called to a residence in the 1100 block of N. Justice Dr., Oracle, on Thursday, July 23, 2015 at approximately 9:30 p.m. after 9-1-1 dispatchers received a report of shots fired.

According to Tim Gaffney, Public Information Officer for the Sheriff's Office, when deputies arrived on scene, they learned from a witness that Nathaniel Buck Harrison, 38, Oracle, came over to the residence uninvited and fired a bullet from a handgun inside of the home.

Deputies attempted to get Harrison to come out of the residence but he refused, Gaffney said. They set up a perimeter around the residence and eventually Harrison came out and was taken into custody.

Harrison refused to answer any questions.

"The victim (age 53) who was inside of the residence with Harrison when deputies responded, said Harrison came over to his residence and came inside without his permission or knowledge," Sheriff Paul Babeu told the San Manuel Miner in a press release.

"Harrison (allegedly) accused the victim of being a 'rat' and sending his friend to prison. Harrison found a board inside of the residence and hit the victim in the head with it so hard, the board broke in half. Harrison told the victim he was going to 'kill' him as he attempted to get a rattlesnake, which he brought with him, to bite the victim, but the snake wouldn't bite. Harrison made the victim kneel down on the floor and he then fired a 45 caliber bullet out of a handgun into a speaker box on the floor which was located near the victim's foot."

A short time later, according to the victim, both he and Harrison heard the sound of sirens coming and knew deputies were on their way. Harrison attempted to hide the pistol under a couch located in the kitchen.

Harrison was booked into the Pinal County Jail for endangerment, aggravated

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Area needs Resolution Copper

While the opposition to the Land Exchange has a right to express its opinion about the Resolution Mining project, it would seem that readers and reporters would want to take a look at both sides. When the opposition group first began their argument several years ago against the land exchange it was because they were losing the Oak Flat camp site that they enjoyed for so many years. It's a beautiful place but totally unimproved, and from what I heard, was seldom used. There are several such sites in the area and Resolution has offered to exchange beautiful land in order to obtain the Oak Flat property. After that the big issue of concern was that the project was going to use all of our water. When that was proven incorrect, they went on to other things and scare tactics like the Apache Leap Mountain was going to crumble and fall into the Town of Superior! Eventually the group was able to team up with some of the San Carlos Apache Tribal Leaders and form a larger coalition against the project.

With all due respect to the San Carlos Leaders, we have been told by other members of the Tribe that Oak Flat was NEVER sacred, the first dance was held there in 2012 and it has no religious or cultural significance to the tribe. The land was designated as "recreational use" by the US Government in the 50s and never designated as sacred or historical.

There is a huge ore body in our area and I believe natural resources are here for humans to use in a wise and responsible manner. I doubt that any person associated with the opposition lives without copper in their lives. Let's see ... computers, cell phones, automobiles. We have many laws in the United States that prevent destruction to the environment and mines can no longer walk away and leave huge piles of tailings and other debris.

The bottom line is that this area desperately needs jobs, economic improvement and a future. The project will create several thousand jobs and put billions of dollars into the economy. The unemployment rate on the San Carlos reservation is somewhere in the neighborhood of 70 percent and Resolution Copper is committed to hire some of the people of the tribe, as well as local and regional people.

Sooner or later this massive amount of copper will be mined. I would much rather see a responsible company like Resolution take on that task than an unknown company that may have no commitment to the Town and Region and no desire to hire locally. Without even starting the mining process Resolution has given hundreds of thousands of dollars to our schools, Town improvements, tourism promotion and local non-profit organizations. There is no guarantee the next company will do this. In a recent independent survey, by Arizona State University, 84 percent of the people in our Region are in favor of this project. Eighty-four percent of the people can't be wrong!

Debra Pace named 'Outstanding Rural Nurse of the Year'

Debra Pace, RN, BSN

Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center would like to proudly announce a wonderful achievement made by one of its Directors: Debra Pace RN, BSN.

Debra recently was selected as the recipient of the "2015 Chris Blackert Outstanding Rural Nurse of the Year Award" for her dedication and wonderful spirit by the Arizona Perinatal Trust.

RoseAnn Garcia, Chief Nursing Officer at Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center in Globe, sent in a nomination letter that best states why Debra was so deserving of this award:

"Debra Pace's passion for excellent patient care, education, staff training and education and community involvement has been instrumental in supporting Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center's commitment to serving our region with Quality, Efficiency, and Care.

"She is a leader that has worked diligently to elevate staff competency and skill set recognizing that rural health nursing requires knowledge that extends beyond departmental 'doors.' She consistently models the behaviors that exceptionally represent the discipline of nursing as well as performing as an expert OB clinician and patient advocate. Deb recognizes that the success of her team translates into a positive patient experience in which quality and compassion is ALWAYS the standard. Her success in fostering and developing a strong and dynamic relationship between colleagues, her staff and physician, ensures that each patient receives the best possible care, her staff feels confident and supported, and our physicians trust in the delivery of care they desire for each and every patient.

"In addition to leading her department with Evidence-Based practice, she has adopted and updated care standards and patient education set by professional organizations such as the Association of Women's Health Obstetric and Neonatal Nurses and American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology. This scientific support ensures that patient care is current, appropriate, and safe.

"I feel truly fortunate to work with a nurse who exemplifies all our discipline aspires to represent and am confident our staff and our patients are in the best possible hands due to Deb's leadership and commitment to patient care."

Both Debra and RoseAnn will be attending this year's Annual Perinatal Conference on Aug. 13 and 14 to accept this award in person. Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center and everyone in the Copper Triangle could not be more proud. Congratulations, Deb!

Grief support group much needed in Copper Triangle

Officials at Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center are very grateful for the partnership of Copper Communities Hospice, Gemini Hospice, and Thema Health Services (formerly The Crossing) which has provided a service that is so very needed in this community.

Ed Walsh of Gemini Hospice, Roger King of Thema Healthcare and Dennis VanGorp of Copper Communities Hospice volunteered their time for six weeks and made this Grief Support Group a possibility. They came together to assist the community without anything in it for themselves, and for that they deserve our deepest thanks.

Grief is something that eventually touches everyone, but because of people like this, who care about our community, grief is no longer something that needs to be endured alone.

The Grief Support Group, held in Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center's Medical Office Building, will start up again near the beginning of the year. The dates will be announced in local newspapers and on the CVRMC's Facebook page once the dates are set.

Booth applications open for Apache Day

Booth applications are available now at the Globe-Miami Chamber of Commerce and will be available at local businesses in Peridot, San Carlos and Bylas soon. San Carlos tribal members receive a half-price discount in booth fees, courtesy of the Apache Gold Casino sponsorship. In addition to booths, there will be a limited number of demonstration booths for various arts and crafts where in exchange for working at their craft through the day, the vendor fee will be waived.

The downtown corridor of historic Globe will be a pageant of color and sound on Saturday, Oct. 17, 2015 as the 32nd annual Apache Jii (Day) celebration gets under way.

Cleaning Up After the Kearny River Fire

If you take a look at the “backside” of the 400 block of Jamestown Road, you will see that much of the flammable brush has been removed. This was a cooperative effort of The Copper Basin Railway and the Town of Kearny, similar to what was done earlier on the 100, 200, and 300 blocks of the town next to the railroad. We thank Bobby Blake, the railway, and our public works employees for making Kearny safer.

A while back the Winkelman Natural Resources Conservation District and its chairman, Bill Dunn, held its regular quarterly meeting as well as a special day hosting government entities which have the expertise to bring about a revitalization of the burned areas along the Gila River. This is a complicated task. Burned lands are owned by ASARCO, the Bureau of Land Management, area ranchers, the State Land Trust, and the Town of Kearny.

Tours of the burned areas were conducted both days. Most of the ash has been blown away by the winds, leaving mostly sterile land in which only the Salt Cedar (tamarisk) can grow. And, indeed, it is already coming back. Fire losses include cottonwoods, willows, and grass along the banks of the river. A visit to the Shipman Fire area of two years ago reveals that salt cedars now tower 25 to 30 feet, crowding out other vegetation. This will be the pattern for the Kearny River Fire unless action is taken soon.

There is a window of opportunity. Endangered birds (the Southwestern Yellow Flycatcher and the Yellow Cuckoo) soon will be heading south. If work is accomplished between now and the beginning of May, some (if not most) of the tamarisk can be removed. The opportunity is complicated by the fact that herbicides can only be used judiciously, being careful that there is no runoff into the Gila River. Replanting is complicated, too, because the burned soils are now so sterile, and because willows and cottonwoods grow slowly compared to salt cedars. The burned salt cedars will have to be dug up and treated with topical applications.

This is an expensive process. It was good to see so many agencies of the State of Arizona and the U.S. Government exploring the process together, and I am heartened that ASARCO wants to be part of the process.

The Town of Kearny will work cooperatively with all these land owners and agencies. From my own experience, I know that things will not come about as smoothly or as quickly as we may like, but I am mightily encouraged that so many groups are willing to work together.

Resilient Forests, Resilient Communities

Arizonans are all too familiar with the consequences of unhealthy and poorly managed forests. Wildfires not only lead to devastating economic losses, they can take a tragic human toll. Our state recently marked the two-year anniversary of the Yarnell Hill fire, when we lost 19 firefighters in a horrific wildfire.

It's clear that forest health should be a priority in Arizona. But it also needs to be a priority in Congress.

I cosponsored the Resilient Federal Forests Act of 2015 because it takes a common-sense approach to forest management. And I'm pleased to announce that it passed the House on July 9 with bipartisan support. It is now headed to the Senate for consideration, and I urge our two Arizona senators to fight for its passage.

This bill does several things that promote healthier forests in Arizona and across the country. Among the most important is it streamlines the regulatory process, which increases efficiency for the U.S. Forest Service as it deals with environmental reviews, timber harvesting and forest management. The bill also promotes collaboration with the private sector and expands tribal participation in the restoration of federal forest lands.

By promoting healthier forests, ultimately this legislation protects the folks who live and work in communities around national forests. We have a lot of those communities here in Arizona.

District One includes 12 Native American tribes, so I'm especially glad this bill expands tribal participation in forest restoration. Our legislation received a strong statement of support from the Intertribal Timber Council.

Forest management is an issue that crosses party lines and crosses state borders. It affects not only our forests but our local economies and the people who live in our communities. That's also why the Four Forest Restoration Initiative (4FRI), the nation's largest forest-thinning project, needs to kick into higher gear. As envisioned, 4FRI will not only allow for thinning overgrown Arizona forests, it will revive the timber industry by opening a sawmill and creating good local jobs.

This spring, the U.S. Forest Service announced that 4FRI's initial environmental impact statement had been completed. This milestone agreement came after more than five years of collaboration between the Forest Service, local governments, conservationists, environmentalists, private industry and other stakeholders.

At the time, I wrote that Arizona was overdue for action on 4FRI. Since then, my staff has met with forestry officials in Arizona, and my office is launching a series of conference calls for stakeholders to review 4FRI's progress and obstacles.

As the representative of a district that includes the Coconino, Kaibab, Apache-Sitgreaves, and Tonto national forests, it's my top priority to ensure 4FRI moves forward.

Prickly Pear cactus fruit classes offered Aug. 1-2

Superior - You've probably tasted prickly pear jelly, maybe you've sipped a margarita flavored and colored with the distinctively vivid cactus fruit juice, but, would you believe the ingredient can be used in everything from breakfast smoothies to refreshing sorbets, salads, BBQ sauce and even soap?

Mark your calendar for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1-2, and, also, the weekend of Aug. 29-30, and, learn all about prickly pears at Boyce Thompson Arboretum, when the popular and scenic Arizona State Park offers its unique series of cactus fruit classes. Classes are at 9:30 a.m. each day, and, no pre-registration required. They're also taught outdoors and involve walking through 200 yards worth of BTA main trail, so wear a wide-brimmed hat, carry water and expect to be outdoors, but in tree-shaded gardens.

ARBORETUM

The Arboretum opens at 6 a.m. Arrive early and you can walk the main trail and explore the beautiful gardens and trails before the day's heat. Cool off in the visitor center breezeway before the start of class. There's also a guided bird walk at 6:30 a.m., and a dragonfly walk at 8:30 a.m. Nature walks and prickly pear classes are free to BTA annual members and state-parks-pass holders; included with $10 daily admission for nonmembers.

You've wanted to pick a peck o'prickly pears, but didn't know how to remove the spines before turning the bright red fruits into tasty jelly. Or margaritas? Learn from prickly pear picking pros (we dare you to say that three times fast)! Workshops feature Robert Lewis, a jocular former Apache Junction resident who has picked, processed and juiced at least 1,000 pounds of cactus fruit over the years. Chef Eric and Terri Naddy of Tall Order Catering in Chandler are also popular presenters returning and sharing their unique spin on cactus cuisine and lessons on despinning and processing. These experts share proven techniques to pick, prepare, process and preserve these juicy, seasonal fruits of the Sonoran Desert, with tasty, healthy prickly pear snacks shared at the end of each class.

BTA's unique summertime series has been going strong for more than a decade; in fact it has proven so popular that classes spawned a cactus culinary festival in the neighboring town of Superior. Mark your calendar to attend the 4th Annual Prickly Pear Festival Aug. 22. Superior's culinary celebration of cactus cuisine includes guided desert hike, a pancake breakfast, complete with prickly pear syrup, and, of course; vendors and guest speakers. Even a class teaching how to homebrew a colorful Prickly Pear IPA beer.

Wondering just how colorful this event should be? Find links to Jack Haskell's 2014 P'pear Festival photo gallery via the Arboretum website at ag.arizona.edu/bta. Click the "events" link or "E-newsletter" for links and more information.

Class ends around 11 a.m. Plan lunch at one of nearly eight local eateries in the historic copper-mining town of Superior, just five-minutes drive from the Arboretum. Porter's Café in downtown Superior is a staff favorite and they mix a tasty prickly pear margarita during harvest season; along with Jade Grill, DeMarco's Italian Restaurant, Edwardo's Pizzeria and Los Hermanos Mexican restaurant and the recently reopened Buckboard Café. Ask for BTA's local restaurant list and map in the Arboretum gift shop.

and crafts booths and savory foods is planned for the event, which will held in front of the historic courthouse in downtown Globe. Tribal royalty in full traditional dress and native entertainers from flute players to hoop dancers will be on hand for a day packed with activities.

The day begins in front of the historic courthouse at the corner of Broad and Oak, one block east of the US 60 highway. Opening ceremonies feature a traditional Apache prayer, followed with the national anthem sung in Apache.

Booths featuring jewelry, painting, beading, wood and stone carving and more are planned for the street fair. Entertainment, including crown dancers, hoop dancers and native flute players, is planned throughout the day and no one will go hungry if they stop by the food booths which will feature everything from delicious Apache fry bread and Indian tacos to more traditional dishes like acorn stew.

There is no admission charge for Apache Jii; the festival has grown every year and offers a unique chance for visitors to talk one-on-one with Native Americans from throughout the Southwest. There is nothing like choosing a piece of jewelry or artwork after visiting with the artist who designed it.

Apache Jii is hosted by the Globe-Miami Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with Apache Gold Casino and Resort, Golden Eagle Distributors, APS and the city of Globe.

For information on Apache Jii, call the Globe-Miami Chamber of Commerce at 928-425-4495.
