Transparency at the Kearny Police Department explained at public meeting last week

By Mila Besich-Lira
Copper Basin News

Following weeks of trouble for the Kearny Police Department, Arizona Department of Public Safety Sgt. David Blue, who is the interim police chief during the ongoing investigation of Chief Corso, hosted a meeting on transparency and the current status of the Kearny Police Department.

Sgt. Blue stressed that it is his job to make sure that the department is running safely and efficiently while he is appointed to the position. He explained that DPS is not taking over the Kearny Police Department and once the investigations are complete the Town Council will need to make a decision on how to proceed with the roles of the chief. He also explained that some information cannot be made public because it involves personnel and their rights to privacy.

As for the ongoing investigation of Corso, Blue explained that it is a separate department within DPS that is conducting that investigation. He is not part of the investigation and he is not in any way leading the investigation. He did explain that DPS is still gathering information on the investigation and those with information should contact the investigator Captain Johnson at 602-223-2112.

“Mission first, people always,” Blue explained as his mission for the department. He aimed to bring information to rumors that have been shared around the community. He explained that DPS returned him to Kearny because he was already familiar with the community from his last time there; he was not requested by the Mayor or Town manager, he said. He explained that towns and cities can work with DPS to provide interim chiefs for period of time and that the assigned interim chief can also call on DPS to provide additional resources during the transition. Those extra services do not stay with the community once the DPS officer is reassigned back to his normal position within DPS.

Another rumor that was brought up was one about weapons from the department were missing. He explained until a weapon is inventoried and visually seen it is considered missing. He confirmed that all weapons are accounted for and none are missing.

Arizona Department of Public Safety Sgt. David Blue speaks to residents of the Town of Kearny about transparency at the Police Department.

Mila Besich-Lira | Copper Basin News

Sgt. Blue explained that the Volunteers in Police Service program has not been cancelled; it is not a program that DPS offers but that does not mean it is not going to be offered in Kearny. The VIP vehicle was in need of repairs and is now back on line and additional equipment needed for VIP's to safely operate has been ordered. He explained that they are scheduling a meeting with VIPs and they will be contacted to attend the meeting.

During a question and answer period, a citizen asked if the KPD has policies and procedures. Sgt. Blue explained that the department follows the employment policies that all Kearny employees follow as far as absences, vacations and standard rules and procedures. He also explained that KPD subscribes to a system called Lexipol that develops procedures and policies for the police departments. The department purchased this system but it has only been used once. These procedures are only enacted after they go through reviews and approval by the Town Attorney, Manager and final approval given by the Town Council.

Police coverage was also discussed, Sgt. Blue explained currently there are two on administrative leave (Chief Corso and Officer Mata) along with three full time employees and two reserve officers.

Sgt. Blue stressed the importance of everyone shopping local to help increase tax revenue to the town which in turn helps the town to fund emergency services like police, fire and ambulance more adequately.

Hummingbird feeder owners asked to watch for bats

Arizona Game and Fish Department (AGFD), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and local researchers are seeking volunteers from throughout southern Arizona to monitor use of their home hummingbird feeders by nectar-feeding bats.

Those willing to participate in the project, conducted in partnership with the Town of Marana, should contact Adjunct Professor Ted Fleming of the University of Arizona at ted@sonaura.net. Volunteers will be asked for their name and address, cross streets only if preferred; zip code; and the general dates bats were noticed using hummingbird feeders, and will be provided with the monitoring protocol. Photos of bats feeding are also being sought.

"If your hummingbird feeders mysteriously drained during the night last summer, the midnight raiders may have been bats," said AGFD Regional Supervisor Raul Vega. "Most of Arizona's 28 bat species eat insects, but two species drink nectar and eat pollen from plants such as the saguaro and agaves. These bats are becoming common visitors to southern Arizona hummingbird feeders in late summer and early fall."

In southern Arizona, there are two bat species that consume nectar: the lesser long-nosed bat, which is listed as federally endangered; and the Mexican long-tongued bat, an Arizona species of concern. These gentle, beneficial pollinators live in caves and mines. During summer nights, they travel in search of food, and over time, have found their way to hummingbird feeders in southern Arizona. The bats are migratory and return to Mexico in the fall.

The use of hummingbird feeders by bats has been documented in southern Arizona for many years. In 2006, large numbers of bats were detected foraging on hummingbird feeders in the urban areas surrounding the Tucson basin. Bats visiting

It's Time to Shop Local

Norm's Hometown IGA; Cosmic Coffee; She's Country; Big D's; West End Café; The Trading Post; ACE Hardware; Buzzy's; Vache's NAPA Store. These are some of the Kearny businesses which, in the past two or three years, have rebuilt themselves, enlarged themselves, transformed themselves and otherwise have staked out an important place in our economy. They join the General Kearny Inn, La Cantina, Family Dollar and Kearny HealthMart in being economy anchors.

There are numerous other businesses too, and as we trade with them we pay the sales tax which builds our town's infrastructure. The businesses pay property taxes as well, furthering our town's well-being. They employ our citizens, which is perhaps the greatest benefit of all.

Making use of our local businesses makes sense in all sorts of ways. If we buy locally, we not only keep the businesses in Kearny. We keep people employed. We enable businesses to expand. And the sales tax and property taxes keep our school and town government running.

Shopping locally makes sense. A new group in Arizona, Local First Arizona, makes the important point that my dollars spent locally not only puts my dollars in the economy but, through employment and the purchases made by others, my dollars recirculate and benefit the economy even more. When I spend one dollar locally, 30 cents remain in the economy. In other words, shopping locally makes a 30% boost.

I'm like everyone else. When I go to Phoenix or Tucson, I see things I can buy cheaper than in Kearny. Cheaper, that is, until I realize that a trip means not only gasoline and wear and tear on my vehicle, but also (usually) the cost of a meal. On top of that, going to Phoenix or Tucson takes up time, time I could have used more productively.

MAYOR'S CORNER

By Sam Hosler
Special to the Copper Basin News

I'm also like everyone else in another way. When I go to the city, I am more prone to do impulse buying, buying things I really do not need or, if I need them, could have bought them locally and avoided all the expense of the trip.

I went to the Local First Arizona website (localfirstaz.com/) and measured the impact that shifting just 10% of my spending to Kearny would have. It's huge! I would put $1,800 more into local businesses. If all of us in Kearny were to shift 10% more of our spending, the net result would be 9 new jobs, over $290,000 in new local wages, and almost $748,000 dollars recirculating locally. Look at the website and see for yourself.

A local shift can be a big lift for our community.

Resolution Copper makes donation Queen Valley Fire District; funding to support fire, rescue and emergency medical services

The Queen Valley Fire District is set to receive a $165,000 contribution from Resolution Copper Mining, according to an agreement signed by the two organizations this week.

The funding, which will be paid in annual installments over the next five years, will help support fire protection, rescue and emergency medical services for Resolution property, located near the Queen Valley Fire District and the Town of Superior.

“This strong financial support is necessary to help us serve not just Resolution, but the entire community,” said Queen Valley Fire District Chief, Cecil Fendley. “We will use the funding to maintain our equipment, train our staff and support the life-saving services we provide.”

Resolution is in the process of planning and permitting a proposed copper mining operation that could create approximately 3,700 jobs, generate over $60 billion in economic impact and result almost $20 billion in state and federal tax payments.

“In everything we do, safety is our first priority. That means having plans and processes in place to reduce risk and prevent on-the-job accidents, but it also means partnering with the community to ensure we have well-trained, well-equipped first responders,” said Andrew Taplin, project director for Resolution. “By supporting the Queen Valley Fire District, we help ensure Queen Valley and the surrounding areas have access to dependable fire, rescue and emergency medical services.”

Resolution has a long history of supporting the community, and contributes to education, environmental and community and human development program throughout the Copper Triangle region.

In addition to serving Queen Valley, the Fire District is often dispatched to Superior as part of the auto aid system, and is called upon to fight wildfires throughout the area.

Queen Valley Fire District provides fire, search and rescue, emergency medical services, and wildfire fighting among the community and surrounding areas in Queen Valley, Arizona. The District employs three full-time firefighters/EMTs and is supported by approximately 30 volunteers.

The Resolution Copper Project is operated by Resolution Copper Mining, which is a limited liability company owned 55 percent by Resolution Copper Company, a Rio Tinto PLC subsidiary, and 45 percent by BHP Copper Inc., a BHP Billiton PLC subsidiary. For additional information or to download photos and videos, visit www.resolutioncopper.com/media/.

Officials from the Queen Valley Fire District are pleased with the agreement struck between the district and Resolution Copper.

Take a Tour of the Resolution Copper Project

Resolution Copper will be hosting bi-weekly tours on Fridays from 9 a.m. to noon in Superior, Arizona.

Resolution Copper employs local workers to reclaim over 11 acres of historical mining land

Resolution Copper is proud to announce a contract award to two local contractors, Oddonetto Construction from Globe and Albo Trucking from Superior. During the next four months, 24 to 26 workers from the Copper Triangle, including San Carlos Apache Reservation, will reclaim approximately 11.5 acres of historical mining land.

The project is located on Resolution Copper's West Plant property, in an area historically known as the "Lower Smelter Pond." Following the completion of the brush removal last year, Resolution Copper will complete reclamation by replacing previously contaminated soil with clean soil and vegetation.

"To date, we have spent more than two-thirds of a $50 million budget," said Casey McKeon, Superior resident and environmental manager for Resolution Copper. "It is our commitment to the community, that we will continue to cleanup and reclaim the historic Magma Mine tailings area to a more natural state."

Work begins Monday, Aug. 17, and will take place Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Resolution Copper will monitor the noise and air quality throughout the duration of the project.

Residents who have questions about the reclamation work can call the Resolution Copper community line at 520.689.3409.

Arboretum Butterfly Walk set for Saturday, Aug. 22

Superior - Why do some butterflies have iridescent blue-black wings, and a foul taste, repulsive to birds and other predators? We asked Tempe resident Ron Rutowski, who teaches biology and has been a professor at ASU since 1976.

Rutowski and his team of graduate and undergraduate students are fascinated by how color is produced, employed and perceived in the animal kingdom. Their main focus is on the ways insects use color as a visual signal, and, how it's interpreted by their compound eyes.

Research has taken Rutowski across North and Central America and Australia. We caught up with the engaging biologist, who says one of the most compelling insect interrelationships can be observed right here in central Arizona. Rutowski is very familiar with the butterfly fauna of the West; he's an Arizona State Parks volunteer, and leads the next butterfly walk at Boyce Thompson Arboretum (BTA) at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 22. This, as with other weekend nature walks, is included with $10 park admission.

When asked what months are best to see butterflies in Arizona, Rutowski stated, "Arizona gets two pulses of rain each year: the winter rains from November to March and the summer monsoon rains in August and September. Because butterflies are so dependent on plants, the adults for nectar to sip and the caterpillars for leaves to munch, and, because our most luxuriant plant growth follows the rains, the spring and fall and not the summer are good times for looking for butterflies. That being said there will certainly still be butterflies to be seen in June, just not quite as many individuals and not quite as many different kinds as in the spring and fall.

On the subject of Pipevine Swallowtails, why they occur at Boyce Thompson Arboretum and what is so unusual about them, he shared, "Dutchman's Pipe, the plant eaten by Pipevine Swallowtail caterpillars, is common at BTA and in the surrounding desert; what's unusual is the iridescent blue color of adult butterflies. For many years a focus in my lab has been on iridescent colors. These colors by definition are directional which means they change rather dramatically in appearance depending on the positions of the iridescent animal and the animal looking at it. Biologists have thought for years that this must present special challenges for the animal to make its iridescent color apparent to an intended receiver.

So, how do they deal with this directionality? The Pipevine Swallowtail is a great subject for studying this question because they have iridescent blue patches on both their upper and lower wing surfaces. The blue on the upper wings surface is found only in males and is a sexual signal. So, how do males present this signal to females in courtship? The lower wing surface blue is part of their warning coloration that predators learn to associate with the fact that these animals are very unpalatable. So, how does the directionality affect the ability of predators to learn this association? Our answers to these questions should be helpful in understanding the behavior of other organisms with iridescent coloration and animal communication systems generally.

Rutowski is a colorful character, himself. Unlike the common stereotype of a butterfly enthusiast, he did not pin colorful butterflies into boxes when he was a kid. On this subject, he stated, "No. I was interested and committed to biology by my early teens, and, at that time my focus was on birds. Birdwatching was an activity my father and I started doing together.

"My first real interaction with butterflies was as a high school senior in an advanced biology class that made regular trips to a nearby canyon in near Los Angeles and kept lists of animals and plants seen there over the course of a year. After high school my interest in birds persisted but became more focused on animal behavior and communication. When I got to graduate school I became quickly convinced by my Ph.D. advisor, Dr. Thomas Eisner, of the many interesting and unanswered questions about communication in insects, especially visual communication in butterflies. That was the beginning of a focus on butterflies and the production and function of visual signals that has persisted throughout my career."

Lobos look to past for new beginning

By Andrew Luberd
Copper Basin News

It's been a struggle for the Hayden football program for the past few years. The Lobos have totaled only seven wins the last three seasons combined and haven't had a winning season since 2007 when they finished 10 – 2 and won the 2A South Sectional Championship under then head coach John Estrada.

Perhaps not coincidentally, Estrada returns this season for a second tour of duty leading the Lobos' football program.

"We want to change what's happened here at Hayden," Estrada told the Copper Basin News. "We want to get it back to the way it was years back."

Estrada served as the Lobos' head coach from 2004-08, leading them to a 39 – 16 record during his first five-year run at the school. He led the Lobos for four-straight winning seasons from 2004-07, including a 12 – 1 record in 2006, which ended in the lone loss of the season to eventual state champion Thatcher in the state semifinals.

Things have changed since Estrada first coached at Hayden, the biggest being the transition from 11-man to 8-man football.

He takes over a program with only one senior and number of underclassmen on its roster. The good news, most of the underclassmen have some experience after earning significant playing time as freshmen.

Sophomore quarterback Mario Mariscal figures to lead the Lobos' offense this season. He's expected to line up behind fellow sophomore Robert Bohrn, who returns to his familiar center position along the offensive line.

Junior running back Santiago Pena was productive in limited action a year ago, averaging more than 13 yards per rush to go along with two touchdowns. Estrada is counting on Pena to be equally productive this season while carrying a heavier load.

The Lobos hit the practice field for the first time on Aug. 3 with their new head coach aiming to change the culture of the program.

"Discipline is my first priority," Estrada said. "We're going to instill that back into the kids and we want to try to get pride back here, at Hayden."

Estrada has a plan as to how to right the ship at Hayden and it starts with the players' performance off the field first. The rest will follow, he says.

"We're going to be scholar-athletes first," he said. "We're going to have respect and discipline. We want to bring that pride back."

"They're not representing themselves but the school and their families," he continued. "That's the way they are going to be taught – respect and scholar athletes."

After the AIA's realignment, the Lobos are now part of the new seven-team Section V, which includes three teams that made the playoffs last season – Ray, Superior and Gilbert Christian.

Estrada was asked what his team needs to do to be successful from week to week.

"Continue to work hard," he responded. "We have to get better every day and every week during the season."

"We're going to throw a lot of stuff at them," Estrada continued. "As long as they pick up the fundamentals of what we're trying to teach them, I believe we're going to be successful."

It appears the Lobos' recent struggles are about to be a thing of the past.

The Lobos open their season on Aug. 28 at Arete Prep. Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

UNDER THE RADAR: HAYDEN LOBOS
Mario Mariscal (So), QB

The sophomore is about to make his first varsity start behind center. Lobos' head coach John Estrada is installing a new offense and has entrusted Mariscal to lead it. With a number of underclassmen on the roster, this could be the beginning for Mariscal and his teammates to build toward a successful run in the playoffs in the very near future.

Brandon Cruz (Jr), RB

Cruz earned All-Division and All-Section recognition in 2014 and could be the dynamic player the Lobos need to spear a turnaround. The combination of speed and athleticism will make him a difficult player to defend for opposing teams. He should be the leader of the team this year and set the example for the Lobos' underclassmen to follow.

Chris Manriquez (Jr), TE

Manriquez is another of the few upperclassmen on the Lobos roster and another who earned All-Division and All-Section honors a year ago. He's impressed his new head coach early in the preseason so far. In the Lobos new offense, Manriquez is expected to be a threat to opposing defenses and a reliable receiver for new quarterback Mariscal.

Arboretum visitors had special treat, last November, being allowed a peek at a different side of Rutowski's talents and interests. While colorful butterfly wings give him the flutters, Rutowski also enjoys playing the fiddle in the band Trio Rio. Rutowski said, "I started playing violin when I was 10, after three years of relatively unsuccessful piano lessons. Over the years I have become increasingly involved in various non-classical musical genres including bluegrass, country, and jazz. Currently, I work with a band called Trio Rio with Ronnie Glover and Don Paddock. We play fairly regularly at several venues in Scottsdale and Cave Creek."

The band's schedule can be found at triorioaz.com. Information on the BTA, including current event schedules, can be found at ag.arizona.edu/bta/.
