Hayden Library closed, Senior Center to remain open

By Mila Besich
Copper Basin News

July 31 was the last day that the Hayden Public Library was open. During the budget approval process for the 2019-2020 Fiscal Year Budget, the Council had to make several significant cuts to public services including closing the library and swimming pool.

Mayor Dean Hetrick explained to Copper Basin News that the council hopes it can reopen the library in the future. The building will be secured and will still be monitored by the staff to ensure the building is not vandalized and that the building remains safe and

PCSO launches Secureview® Tablets for inmates in an effort to reduce recidivism

The Pinal County Sheriff's Office is excited about its partnership with Securix Technologies which will bring technology to the inmates at the Adult Detention Center. This technology is aimed at preparing the incarcerated with 21st century skills to help them have a successful future. Inmates are now able to use tablets to help advance their education and gain new skills while they are incarcerated.

The sheriff's office is now equipped with a digital toolkit made up of the SecureView® Tablet as well as Digital Mail Center and in August, will be adding eMessaging, all from Securix Technologies.

"With tablets, inmates can stay in touch with family and keep their minds pre-occupied with educational and religious programming. We expect that it will help with behavior," said Sheriff Mark Lamb, Pinal County Sheriff's Office.

Securix offers the community tablets for free, and Sheriff Lamb says they occupy the time of the incarcerated in productive ways and allows inmates to have access to better opportunities. One example is the job search application, which is powered by Securix' Jobview application.

"For those who want to improve themselves, it opens up that door," he said. "Jobview gives offenders opportunities, so if they're getting out of jail, they know how to prepare for a job as well as know who's hiring."

This tool is intuitive and requires no staff intervention. In addition to the job search, it also has applications that give those access to the phone, education, mental health, and the structurally sound.

Gila County Library Services will be helping the Town to relocate some of the computer equipment that is at the library to the Senior Center. This will allow local residents to continue to access the internet and various job training services.

Due to the additional financial support from Pinal County, Gila County and the Pinal Gila Council for Senior Citizens, the Hayden Town Council was able to keep the Senior Center open and did not have to reduce hours or services. The Pinal County Board of Supervisors along with the Gila County Board of Supervisors each voted to approve an additional $20,000 contribution to ensure the center remained open. Both counties generally contributes $20,000 to the Senior Center each year to help fund the Senior Center.

"On behalf of our entire council, we all appreciate the help and support from Gila County, Pinal County and the Pinal Gila Council for Senior Citizens," stated Hetrick.

The staff and council will continue to monitor the budget and they are optimistic that they can re-open the Library at some point.

“We hope this will help inmates better their lives while they are in our custody. Our population is working with educators in our jail. They now have the opportunity to get a GED. We hope it will help with recidivism and makes them more employable. If you have a job, and you’re good at it, then you don’t have a reason to commit a crime and come back into my facility,” said Sheriff Mark Lamb.

SecureView® Tablet also offers the Make Mine program which brings premium content through applications such as eBooks, Podcasts, Music and Games to the jail population.

“We are introducing games so that they will not be disruptive and not politicking in the pod about race or gangs. So, this is another option to improve the safety of those incarcerated and of the staff,” Sheriff Lamb added.

The SecureView® Tablet Make Mine program helps improve facility efficiencies by providing personal access to make phone calls and search for jobs as well as giving greater access to books, educational materials and other content. The educational offerings are the top interest of facility leadership.

The podcasts on the Make Mine tablets are another resource for inmates. Inmates can take advantage of those podcasts as a tool to manage stress, learn life skills and how being drug-free will benefit offenders.

“Some of our inmates have grown up with a mom and dad on drugs or alcohol. They’ve had it pretty rough growing up. The podcasts teach them about life decisions, not falling into the same old traps of committing crimes and doing drugs,” said Sheriff Lamb.

PCSO believes having a healthy and strong support system is a good way for offenders to get back on the right path. So being able to keep in touch with their children and loved ones is so important. The tablets have the capability to make phone calls allowing a better opportunity to stay in touch with loved ones and adds that regular communication also helps reduce stress in the jail population. In fact, studies show a link between inmates maintaining relationships with their loved ones, while incarcerated, reduces recidivism.

From a security standpoint - the threat of contraband is one reason why the Pinal County Sheriff’s Office looked for an alternative to regular mail. For example, Sheriff Lamb explains that fentanyl is now more prevalent with drug dealers and the cartel. Synthetic fentanyl is sold illegally as a powder, which can be inhaled or airborne and put officers in danger who are hand inspecting paper mail.

“Before Securus’ Digital Mail Center, we had to visually inspect mail. Staff can overdose or even die from just the tiniest amount of this drug. Last year our staff discovered mail laced with methamphetamine. So, by scanning and electronically delivering paper mail, we protect our staff and our inmates,” Sheriff Lamb explained.

The facility still receives some paper mail such as money orders and items for the law library.

Pinal County also introduced Securus’ eMessaging. This application on the SecureView® Tablet offers the incarcerated another way to keep in touch with family and friends while still maintaining all existing methods of communication.

Communication with the outside world better prepares inmates for re-entry, and that is a top priority for Sheriff Lamb who feels tablets give the incarcerated opportunities to build a better future.

“We want to be the top jail in the state or even the western region. The community needs to see what we are providing for our inmates to help them get back on their feet to be the best citizens they can be,” Sheriff Lamb concludes.

The Pinal County Sheriff’s Office’s Adult Detention center houses an average of 500 inmates a day. The tablets are monitored and the inmates are aware that their activities and all forms of conversations are monitored, which is standard practice at all detention facilities.

Inmates work with the SecureView® Tablet.

Pinal Rural, Oracle CERTs participate in LZ training at casino

Pinal Rural Fire and Medical District, Oracle CERT volunteers and San Carlos Police participated in a special Landing Zone training at the Apache Sky Casino Saturday. Three different helicopter crews from Native Air, LifeNet and AirEvac taught the firefighters and first responders about setting up a landing zone. Each helicopter has different requirements, although basic landing zone rules are the same for all. Some of the lessons taught include: how to secure a landing zone, how to communicate with the pilot when landing may be compromised, what requirements are needed for patient transport, when to have helicopters on standby, how to approach the helicopter once its landed and when it's not appropriate to transport by helicopter.

The ABCs of life: how social-emotional development in early childhood is key to success later

Copper Corridor (August, 2019) – Parents who foster positive, nurturing relationships with their baby, toddler or preschooler will help the healthy development of their child's social-emotional skills that will serve the child later in life.

Important social and behavioral skills, such as motivation, self-discipline, focus and self-esteem begin to take root from birth to age 5. Successful people share these traits and families play a large role in helping children to learn these essential life skills.

“Families lay the foundation for babies, toddlers and preschoolers to be able to learn how to process the world around them,” said Kelly Lubeck, program manager for the family support and literacy team at First Things First.

“Helping children learn skills that allow them to express how they feel, have empathy for others and work through conflict will serve them for their entire lifetime.”

First Things First encourages families to establish a nurturing environment during every stage of their young child's life.

For babies, creating a nurturing environment starts by making them feel safe and loved. This helps them develop the capacity to form a strong social-emotional foundation. Parents can talk, read and sing with their baby; maintain a consistent routine, so the baby knows what to expect throughout the day; and provide responsive care by smiling, laughing or cuddling with them.

EARLY CHILDHOOD

emotional skills begins with allowing children to express their feelings. Experts from the U.S. Department of Education say some ways include saying, "You look sad. Let's see if we can make you feel better." This lets your child know that you are paying attention to their needs and want to be there for them.

Lubeck cautions against using time out, which can be counterproductive.

"Time outs for big feelings are not helpful to children and can be isolating," she said.

Parents can instead set a good example by talking about their own feelings or emotions, which will help a young child describe their own feelings. For toddlers, use pictures of different emotions and label them for the child. Let the child know it's ok to have strong feelings like anger or frustration and that you are there to help manage those feelings. Show different ways to manage those emotions such as taking deep breaths or spending time with a comfort item, such as a stuffed animal.

For preschoolers, parents can encourage the child to draw a picture of what happened to make them upset and describe what they were thinking and feeling at each stage.

According to the National Association for the Education of Young Children, research shows that children with higher emotional intelligence are better able to pay attention, are more engaged in school, have more positive relationships, and are more empathic. As adults, higher emotional intelligence is linked to better relationships, more positive feelings about work. Helping young children develop emotional intelligence will have a positive impact on them today and as they grow.

About First Things First – First Things First is a voter-created, statewide organization that funds early education and health programs to help kids be successful once they enter kindergarten.
